Ewig, Soper at Odds on School Ballot

Meeting Set Tuesday To Discuss Changes Inference Is Made That Setup Might Defeat Bus Vote; Deception Is Denied

Legal counsel for the Kingston Rural School Area Committee seeking liberalization of the school bus program charged today that ballots for the referendum Thursday will confuse the voter and demanded that they be recalled and prepared with greater clarity.

Dr. Earl F. Soper, superintendent of school, today told The Freeman that he had arranged to meet with Attorney Ewig Tuesday, 8:15 a. m., to discuss the ballot and any changes that might be necessary to make the referendum clear to the voters.

Hits Preparation

In a letter to the Kingston Board of Education (Consolidated), Attorney Arthur B. Ewig claims that the ballot is so prepared that it will encourage improper marking and voided ballots.

He charged there was also an error in instructions. The instructions say to mark the ballot with a pencil having a black lead. According to Ewig, a ballot may be marked either with such a pencil or a pen having blue or black ink.

Charges Omissions

He also calls attention to omission of instructions that the voter should mark only the "No" or "Yes" and not both boxes.

Dr. Soper said he would be "happy to incorporate any suggestions" that were feasible. The ballot to be used he said was the official ballot used when voting on the Dietz Stadium school issue in 1957 and was approved by Albany at that time. Since that time the election law has been changed to allow ballots to be marked with ink as well as pencil and so the phrase cited by Ewig was outdated.

He said the board was not "an insidious monster attempting to deceive the public" and had tried to remain academic rather than emotional in mapping out the school bus program.

Attorney's Letter

Attorney Ewig's letter follows: "The official ballot prepared by your Board pertaining to the coming Thursday's transportation referendum has just been brought to the attention of the legal committee of the Kingston Rural School Area Committee.

"If the Board of Education by design intends to do all in its power to cause this resolution to be defeated or plans to sabotage the effort of the voters of the School District (Consolidated) to indicate their preference with respect to the vital transportation problem now confronting the area, it could not more effectively be done than by submitting this question in the manner and form suggested by such ballot. Not only will the voters be confused, but the members of the Board and the Committee (who are better acquainted with this problem) will also be confounded.

Elements Separated

"I believe we were in agreement that the question of rural area transportation and City transportation were both to be joined in a single proposition—and that a 'Yes' vote would be affirmation of both, while a 'No' vote would be a rejection of the entire issue. Unfortunately, the separation of the two elements of the already agreed-upon single proposition has caused the placement of the voting squares to be one opposite each other. This ballot suggests that the voter may vote 'Yes' if he favors liberalizing the rural transportation regulations and that he may also, on the same ballot, vote 'No' if he does not favor transportation for City children. Should this course be followed by any voter, the ballot must automatically be voided, since only a single 'Yes' or a single 'No' is acceptable.

"Your Board now stands com-

Latins Ask Probe Halt, Smear Stop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

UTICA, N. Y. (AP)—The Federation of Italian-American Societies wants Gov. Rockefeller to halt the state probe of vice and crime here because "it has been a continuous source of embarrassment and harassment to the people of Italian extraction."

The president of the federation is Charles G. Merlino, city purchasing agent. City purchasing practices currently are being investigated.

The federation is the second organization representing persons of Italian extraction to ask the Republican governor to end the 16-month-old investigation.

In a letter to Rockefeller dated Oct. 7 and made public Saturday, the federation threatened a statewide campaign if the governor did not end the probe.

"We know that we can appeal to the hundreds of Italian-American organizations spread through New York City and the State of New York, and we have been assured that we will have their support, to put an end to this defamatory of people of Italian ancestry in this community," the letter stated. "We are just another progressive city of a great state," it added.

The letter was signed by Eugenio Petrucci, secretary. He wrote that the federation's stand was endorsed by 13 member organizations.

Saturn Development Decision Expected On Shift to NASA

By BEN PRICE

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Project Saturn, key to the United States' big leap into space, has been barely rocking along on a 40-hour, keep-down-the-overtime week.

If Saturn's progress at Redstone Arsenal here is any test, interviews with its top missilemen indicate the United States seems to be making little extra effort to overtake the Soviets in the space race.

A decision is expected this week on whether the Saturn project will be transferred to the National Aeronautical and Space Administration.

Auto Workers Are Asking Changes, Oppose Any Split

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—The United Auto Workers favor a realignment of the nation's political forces — but not a third party.

The UAW convention declared Sunday that both Democratic and Republican parties need an overhaul—"if the present two-party system is to operate more effectively in the public interest."

Although the 1,200,000-member UAW went on record in its political action program against formation of a new major party, a few delegates advocated such a move.

But UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock urged delegates not to let their "frustration, resentment" lead to a third party.

The announced objective of Project Saturn was to provide an "efficient and reliable system for lifting multi-ton loads into high orbit."

Project Saturn funds suffered an unannounced cut of nearly 48 percent this year by the Defense Department — from 135 million dollars to 70 million. The cutback already has resulted in a seven-month to one-year stretch-out in the original development program.

Earlier there had been indications the space program would be turned over to the Air Force.

Project to Continue

Under whatever auspices the Saturn development is expected to continue, informed Washington sources say. But the pace so far hardly has been breakneck.

Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, commander of the Army Ordnance Missile Command here, says: "At present, plans based on the present budget plus what appears to be the probable budget for next year do not support the Saturn program at the speed at which it could be developed. We are not talking billions of dollars, either. We are talking millions."

Positive Decision

Making no bones that he's boiling over what he considers the lag in the nation's space program, Medaris says: "The basic problem is simple. There must be a positive decision. Are we or are we not going to compete with the Russians? If we are, there has to be a solid, well-financed program. Right now we are straddling the issue."

These facts were gleaned in a series of interviews with Redstone Arsenal sources.

Town Candidates Speak at Meeting Of Woman's Club

For the second town election year, members of the Woman's Club of Rosendale heard from the candidates for town offices at the regular meeting of the club at the home of Mrs. Vernon Freese of Tillson, Thursday night.

Attending were George Moltenhauer, Democratic candidate for reelection as town supervisor; John E. Schultz, Republican candidate for supervisor; Joseph Szabo, Democratic candidate for superintendent of highways; John Markle, present Republican superintendent of highways.

Oliver Craig, Democratic candidate for assessor for four years; Justice of the Peace Edward Brodsky, Republican incumbent; Alexander Kucpez, Democratic candidate for assessor for two years; Walter Keator, Republican incumbent assessor.

Arthur Hahn, Republican town councilman; Mrs. Catherine O'Leary, Democratic candidate for town clerk; Mrs. Margaret George, Democratic candidate for tax collector.

Unable to attend were Burt Thorpe, Democratic candidate for justice of the peace; Rune Karlson, Democratic candidate, town councilman; Miss Lillian Hyatt, incumbent Republican town clerk; and Mrs. Mildred Moxlan, Republican, for town clerk.

Following the talk by the candidates, the business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Gene Van Winkle, president.

New members welcomed were the Mmes. Frank Walsh, Frank Chyzik, Howard Mansfield and Andrew Bouras. Mrs. James Merck was a guest of the evening.

Mrs. Van Winkle announced that she had been called by Mrs. Edward Craig of Stone Ridge regarding transportation needed by a child suffering from muscular dystrophy. When Mrs. Charlotte Peck of the clinic was contacted, she said that the child should be brought in on Thursday or Friday at 10 a. m. for treatment. Mrs. Walter Williams volunteered to perform this service for a time and Mrs. Wilfred Doolittle be alternate.

A donation of $5 was received from Raymond Wright of Tillson for the loan closet, as announced by Mrs. Thomas Burns, chairman of the loan closet. She also reported that she purchased two mattress covers which she authorized to do at the previous meeting. Mrs. Doolittle, speaking for the Rosendale-Tillson Post of the American Legion, said that the auxiliary had obtained a walker which would be added to the loan closet as soon as it was assembled. There has been some difficulty in assembly and the company manufacturing the article has been contacted and is expected to supply the information.

Mrs. Charles DeWitt of Tillson was elected a delegate to the third district meeting to be held in Albany Wednesday. She was chosen to accompany Mrs. Alfred Trandell and Mrs. Arthur O'Leary who were selected at the previous meeting. Mrs. Van Winkle, third district publicity director, and Mrs. William Kloefer, Ulster County chairman, also plan to attend.

Mrs. Van Winkle informed the group of the Rosendale-Cottick Parent-Teachers Club's decision to ask the village board for a crossing guard on Main Street near the Rosendale School. Since the Women's Club, for quite some time, had attempted to have proper school markings placed at that location and was instrumental in seeing that the yellow crossing markers were painted on the street, the members unanimously agreed to add their petition to the village board requesting a crossing guard.

Mrs. Peter Mathews, chairman of the Women's Club of Rosendale fashion show Wednesday, Oct. 21, 8 p. m. at the Williams Lake Hotel, announced that club models will be the Mmes. Kloefer, Eugene Galvin, and Joseph Hill. Children participating will be Linda Sue Hasenflue, Pamela and Gary Mulligan, Stephanie Reposky and James Van Winkle.

Wedding gowns will be shown in conjunction with the Year of History theme and these will be modeled by Miss Mary Walsh, Mrs. Patricia Stanton, Miss Barbara DeWitt and Miss Page One, Miss Loretta Badd.

Mrs. Trandell, co-chairman, named the following as hostesses: the Mmes. Curran Bouras, Robert Demarest, Doolittle, Galvin, Martin Joyce, Mansfield, Louis Mastro, Stephan Reposky, Walsh and Richard Weir.

The Mmes. Leon Thorpe, O'Leary, Burns and Joseph Oehlein will officiate at the tea table. Ushers are the Mmes. Warren Larabee, Frederick Dippel, Chyzik, Nicholas Pezzello, John Trataros and Albert Morelli.

Mrs. Freese and Miss Florence Buckley will collect tickets at the door assisted by Mrs. Lucien Auletta and Mrs. Vincent Steeley. Mrs. Anne Duffy is in charge of the order of showing and Mrs. George will assist the models.

Ticket captains reported that the tickets have been selling quite rapidly and it was reemphasized that, if sales continue to go as they are now, it is anticipated that there will be none to sell at the door.

All hostesses, ushers, and models will meet at Williams Lake Hotel Monday, Oct. 19 at 7:30 p. m. so that final practice may be held.

The fashion show committee will meet at the home of Mrs. Trandell, Tillson Estates, Tuesday, Oct. 13 at 7:30 p. m.

Hostesses for the evening were the Mmes. Freese, Oehlein and Van Winkle.

Cost of Scouting Cheap Compared To Prison Upkeep

"The costs of operating a Boy Scout Council are slight compared to those of a penal institution," declared Elwood Hitchcock, president of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, recently.

"The Boy Scouts help to combat crime where it begins, in juvenile delinquency. The activities and recreation offered America's youth in scouting provide a healthy and wholesome outlet for the youthful energies that otherwise might be expended on unlawful deeds."

"The Rip Van Winkle Council membership in Ulster and Greene Counties has grown in five years by 20 per cent to more than 3,000 boys, while the budget has remained on the 1954 level," he pointed out.

"An adequate scouting program for 1960 cannot be maintained with an inadequate budget. The Kingston Area Community Chest will contribute substantially to the budget."

"The 1960 scouting finance campaign will begin October 20, outside the Kingston area, in Ulster and Greene Counties to raise the additional $30,500 needed to carry out this ambitious program."

"The Rip Van Winkle scouting program," explained President Hitchcock, "maintains the five-person council service center at 260 Fair Street, Kingston, for three scouting executives who provide professional leadership."

Here the essential records are maintained and the program administered.

"The program also provides training, guidance and service to more than 1,000 volunteer leaders on 120 Cub Scout Packs, Scouting Troops, and Explorer Units in Ulster and Greene Counties, maintains year 'round camping facilities at Camp Tri-Mount, East Jewett, and provides activities on a council and district basis to make scouting more interesting and educational."

"Ninety-nine cents of every scouting dollar in the council goes into council programs and activities. The remaining one cent per dollar goes to the national council, which returns it 10-fold in guidance and service," concluded President Hitchcock.

For Not Yielding Road to Police

Two drivers were charged with failure to yield right-of-way to an official vehicle under emergency call conditions after mishaps Sunday and early today involving police patrol cars.

James Kokkios, 29, of Clinton Avenue, was booked on the charge after his sedan and a police car driven by Officer Harry Short collided at Albany and Smith Avenues early today.

Kathleen A. DeCicco, 17, of 325 East Chester Street, driver of a car owned by Gladys DeCicco, same address, was the other driver booked after a mishap Sunday afternoon on Albany Avenue near Maiden Lane involving a patrol car driven by Officer James Scott.

Both are due in city court Tuesday.

The Kokkios sedan was reported damaged on its left front fender and bumper and the car driven by Officer Short was reported damaged on its right front fender and right doors. The DeCicco car was damaged on the left front fender and bumper and the patrol car driven by Officer Scott was damaged on the right rear door, right rear fender and tail light.

Chamber Members Plan to Attend Viaduct Hearing

The regular meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce will take place tomorrow night in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

At this meeting final plans will be made for appearances at the Washington Avenue viaduct removal hearing before the Public Service Commission Thursday morning at 10 a. m. This hearing takes place in the Common Council Chamber at the Kingston City Hall.

Because of the great need for improving the Washington Avenue approach to Kingston, because it is inadequate for today's traffic and dangerous, it is urged that a large number of citizens attend the hearing Thursday morning.

Frederick H. Stang, president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, will preside at the directors meeting tomorrow night and testify on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce at the Public Service Commission hearing on Thursday.

Ewig, Soper

mitted to the proposition of seeking a true expression of opinion on the part of the Consolidated Area. Void ballots cannot be counted and are meaningless.

Objections Raised
"The objections here raised can be simply overcome by submitting the resolutions in the form of a single paragraph—not broken down into two parts as you have now done."

"In the interest of justice and fair play, we demand that the ballots already prepared by your Board be recalled and a proper and less confusing one be submitted."

"I might point out an error in the instructions. The Election Law presently provides that such ballots may now be marked with 'x' or a pen having blue or black ink or with a pencil having black marking to pencil."

Omit Instructions
"It is interesting to observe that you omit any instruction indicating that the ballot must be marked either in the 'Yes' or the 'No' column, but not in both. Such an instruction, while not eliminating the confusion created by this ballot, might at least tend to minimize the dangers so created."

"Since, in the interest of fair play, you submitted the content of the resolution to me for my approval, should not the ballot as well have been submitted, particularly when the form itself has proved to be as controversial as the principal issue?"

"The referendum is scheduled for Thursday, October 15, 1959. Accordingly, I look for an immediate reply so that my future course of action may be determined."

"It is suggested that when the voting has been completed that the ballots of the several areas not be mingled prior to taking this count; but that each area be tallied separately and separately recorded."

Columbus Day Joker
SEAL HARBOR, Maine (AP) — A noted biographer of Christopher Columbus says every Columbus Day some joker comes up with a claim someone else discovered America.

Rear Adm. Samuel Eliot Morison commented Sunday night on the claim by a Soviet scholar, identified in London only as Tsypernik, that Columbus did not discover America.

Morison won a Pulitzer Prize with his account of Columbus' voyage.

Ready UN Survey

Langford who was 79 years old in August of this year, was for many years a chauffeur in the central part of New York State. At one time he was chauffeur for George F. Johnson of Endicott-Johnson shoe firm. He feels the greatest single improvement in cars has been in brakes. Early models such as the Chase had only mechanical brakes on the rear wheels and were not always reliable. He also recalled that the gas tank was located under the seat of early cars and it was sometimes necessary to back up a steep incline to insure correct gas flow.

Red Chinese Claim Moscow Is Undisputed Big Leader

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
Moscow, say the Red Chinese loudly and clearly, is the big boss. Peiping's Communist party has gone out of its way to emphasize that the Soviet Union is the undisputed leader of the world Communist movement.

The remarkable performance more than justifies the expressed conviction of Secretary of State Christian A. Herter that the Kremlin is responsible for the actions of China and the whole Red bloc. It underscores Undersecretary Douglas Dillon's contention that the U.S.S.R. should be held responsible for any Peiping aggression.

Extravagant Bow

If there are differences on the ideological or the strategy level between Moscow and Peiping, the Chinese party seems to have buried them in an extravagant bow to Moscow's unquestioned leadership.

As if to dispel any notions among the world's Communists of a Kremlin-Peiping rift, the most important Red Chinese newspaper, the Peiping People's Daily, has just published an editorial important enough to be chosen by the whole country's provincial press. Its theme also was broadcast in foreign languages.

The Soviet Bosses

It was not a long editorial. But no less than eight times it stated unequivocally that in matters of the world revolution and the strategy of the revolution, the Soviet leaders were the bosses.

Here are pertinent excerpts: "China has become a component of the Socialist camp headed by the Soviet Union."

"The entire Socialist camp, headed by the Soviet Union, has grown in strength and closer unity with each passing day."

"In the past 10 years, the great unity of the Socialist camp, headed by the Soviet Union, has made tremendous contributions to safeguarding world peace and in socialist (by which the Reds mean Communist) undertakings."

Pillar of Peace

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's recent disarmament proposal "clearly illustrates that the Socialist camp, headed by the Soviet Union, is the strong pillar of peace."

"The Chinese people have always regarded it as their sacred international duty continuously to consolidate and develop the solidarity of the Socialist camp headed by the Soviet Union."

"Today the Socialist camp, headed by the Soviet Union, is more united and stronger than ever."

Red China will "promote the unity of the Socialist camp headed by the Soviet Union."

And the last line of the editorial: Long live the great solidarity of Socialist countries headed by the Soviet Union!"

The Chinese Communists hardly could make their meaning clearer.

Think It Through

E. F. HUTTON

Okay, Mr. Khrushchev!

The present Czar of all the Russians made a tremendous propaganda speech before the U.N. He says that in the past 10 years of cold war, the world has spent enough money to build 150,000,000 homes capable of housing a half billion people, or more.

O. K., Mr. K. We do not dispute your figures, but why was the money spent?

You point to the tremendous advance the human race could make if the cost of armament were diverted to building homes, schools, roads, hospitals, etc.

O. K., Mr. K., we agree. You propose to completely abolish all arms, armies, general staffs, military schools, and to do so in 4 years.

O. K., to that, and the sooner the better. But you talk as if you were the first person to ever think of this.

Almost 40 years ago, the League of Nations was created to accomplish all these things. Have you forgotten that it was Soviet Russia that so violated the orders of the League that it expelled your country from membership?

Then the United Nations was set up. That was 14 years ago. Your government, and you, yourself, have hamstrung the U.N. with veto after veto. Russia entered the Korean War in direct violation of the U.N. and should then have been expelled a second time.

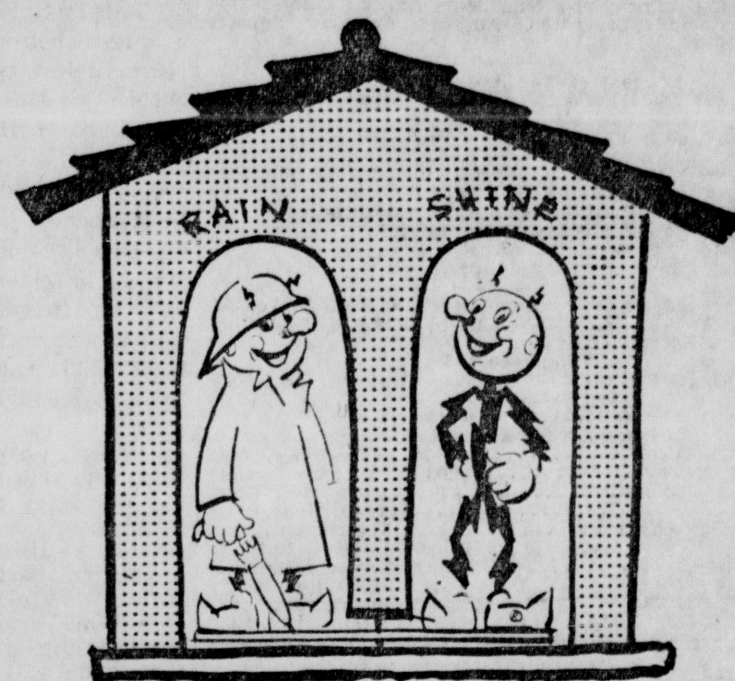

We can only conclude, Mr. K., that you are a blue-sky salesman, a gold brick artist, an oily old fraud.

E. F. Hutton

Murphy commented that he expected no such surplus as the $135,000,000 predicted by Comptroller Arthur Levitt, the only Democrat holding a top elective office in the state administration. But even if Levitt were right, Murphy added, such a surplus would be used "to get the state back on a pay-as-you-go basis."

State Tax Head Sees No Surplus, Rate Reduction

NEW YORK (AP)—Here's the word from State Tax Commissioner Joseph H. Murphy on a state tax cut next year: there won't be any.

He predicts there won't be any revenue surplus, either.

Murphy said Sunday that, if there were any surplus it would go to help pay the state debt, not reduce taxes.

Appearing on the WCBS program "Let's Find Out," Murphy said current tax receipts indicate New York State will take in "about what the governor estimated—$715,000,000."

This should lop off about $271,000,000 from the state debt of $404,000,000, he added.

He emphasized that "until we get the debt paid off" the taxpayers have no hope for a tax cut.

WHAT MAKES BUICK DRIVE SO SMOOTHLY?

Buick's Exclusive Turbine Drive is Jet-Smooth...

No Mechanical Gears Ever Shift!

In a day when so many cars are alike, we believe you should know how basically different and how basically better a Buick is built.

For instance, no car at Buick's price, nor any car at a higher price, offers you so smooth, so dependable, so trouble-free an automatic transmission as Buick's Turbine Drive.

In ordinary automatic transmissions, gears are shifted automatically. But the shift is there! You feel it shift or hear it shift. And with each shift, the engine must adjust to a change in load, the wheels must handle a change in traction.

With today's Buick in "Drive"—the flow of power from toe to wheels is jet-smooth, faster than ever and uninterrupted. The only thing that shifts is the pitch of stator blades in a swift, powerful current of oil... high angle for superb performance in starting or passing... low angle for best economy at cruising speeds.

Turbine Drive Transmission is available in every Buick. If you choose the LeSabre—the lowest-priced Buick—it is a modestly priced option. If your choice is Invicta—the high-performance Buick—or Electra—the finest Buick of all... it is yours as standard equipment. But the only sure way to get this quality Buick feature is to buy a Buick. And this is the year. This is Buick at its all-time best!

Economy Angle Performance Angle

Nothing shifts but the pitch of the stator blades in a jet-smooth flow of oil. High angle for quick starts and passing. Low angle for economical cruising.

DARK SIDE OF THE MOON

Whether the new Soviet Lunik finally does everything it is supposed to do exactly according to plan is no longer the question. It has accomplished enough to add great new luster to Russia's reputation in the space field.

First Russia hit the moon and now it appears to have looped it with a stunning satellite flight that may bring the world its first knowledge of the moon's dark side.

It is one more demonstration of the Soviet Union's evident mastery of the problem of rocket power. Most scientists seem to credit that victory as crucial to the subsequent Russian successes with space vehicles.

Soviet rockets are believed capable of developing an initial thrust roughly twice as great as we can muster. Our rocket research officials declare frankly this puts us in second place in the space race for an uncertain time ahead.

To come abreast of Russia in rocket power we are relying on the Saturn rocket, which is actually a cluster of rocket engines designed to produce a thrust of 1,500,000 pounds—about twice Russia's believed present maximum.

Yet there is nothing in this prospect to give us early comfort.

For one thing, Saturn's future is tangled up in a budget and organization review of the whole U. S. space program.

For another, clustering rocket engines is a technique the Russians might employ as easily as we. We have no assurance that a successful Saturn would indeed find us catching them. The latest Lunik shows they do not rest on their laurels.

Nor do they rest content with solving but one problem. Their moon-hit and moon-loop shots suggest strongly they are conquering with amazing skill the intricate difficulties of rocket guidance, once our vaunted specialty and our offset to Russia's superior rocket thrust.

U. S. officials can with good sense assert that Russia's space achievements do not mean it is likewise ahead on intercontinental missiles. It is felt we are roughly equal in this vital defense field.

Yet we would have to be utterly foolhardy not to fear that the tremendous momentum the Russians have developed in space exploration will not make decisive impact in the field of weapons.

Our misfortune—and it could only one day be tragedy—is that Soviet momentum was achieved from a start made in 1945. We waited almost 10 years before we awoke and began moving frantically to try to catch up.

We are still trying.

Although horseshoeing may not be an art, a lot of talent certainly is involved in escaping being kicked.

A TIME FOR REFLECTION

Many Americans are inclined to recoil from anything that smacks of laziness. They feel, consciously or not, that everyone ought to be busy at something or other all the time. If they merely sit for awhile, a sense of guilt creeps upon them.

It is not time-wasting that such persons object to. They are willing to waste endless amounts of time at cards, or watching third-rate television shows. When engaged in such pursuits they seem to have the feeling that it is all right because they are "doing something." It is only quiescence that they seek to avoid.

This is unfortunate. For quiescence—especially if it involves reflection, contemplation—can be one of the most rewarding of all experiences. Only by such acts of taking a leisurely, calm look at life and its manifold problems can one gain the perspective to mold a satisfying philosophy.

Autumn is a good season for taking stock of life. Autumn is a reflective time, or at least it can be if we let the magic of still, golden days do its work. To sit in the mellow sunlight, letting the mind travel as it will—this is not indolence, but a rich and worthwhile experience.

THE SCHLESINGER MEMORANDUM

According to a memorandum which Professor Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., of Harvard voluntarily prepared to instruct the Democratic Party, President Eisenhower's most important contribution to national life is a well-advertised apathy.

This is a professional wisecrack that must elicit a laugh when heard the first or even second time. Nevertheless, the apathy does exist. Perhaps never before in American history were the American people so apathetic about their own affairs.

That this country lacks stirring, exciting leadership is obvious. But the reasons are not obvious. Is it necessary to be strong in opposition before we can become interested in the life about us? Do we have no affirmative enthusiasms? Can we only be stirred by a Carry Nation, by a Prohibition movement, by an anti-Prohibition movement, by a William Jennings Bryan or a Billy Sunday? By a Big Bill Haywood or a Teddy Roosevelt?

It is a curious phenomenon, this apathy. It is as though an older generation has become very tired and youth has not yet become diverted from the discovery of sex to the discovery of ideals. Patriotism was deliberately killed as an expression of idealism in the preparation of the public to accept participation in World War II. Our children were taught in the school to accept the One World concept and when they had a look at the snarling, gyping, murderous world into which they came after World War II, they settled down to rock-n-roll and Elvis Presley as good as anything else they saw.

The Existentialist and Beatnik movements were missed by parents and even by the press until "juvenile delinquency" became a sufficiently pressing problem to compete with the man who bit the dog, which some old-timers say is a suitable criterion for news.

Leadership in the United States has always been found in the pulpit and the press. The church, Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, regarded itself as the keeper of the morals of the nation and from pulpits in every part of the country, vigorous and respected men thundered, like prophets of old, against improprieties, indecencies and corruptions. Their voices formed public opinion.

It does not particular good to look back to other days, except to say that they are no more. The American pulpit is soft; it does not thunder. It speaks in dulcet and inoffensive tones, even on theological subjects. For a time, there was a lapse from church-going and the clergy avoided giving offense. Also in the struggle between Christianity and Humanism, which has influenced American religious activity of all faiths during the past half century, it appeared for a while as though pragmatic, materialistic, Humanism was taking over.

The press, too, has changed its character over the past 50 years. In this country, public opinion was formed in the editorials of daily newspapers and weekly magazines. Such publications as "The Outlook" and "The Independent" did influence the public mind. Editorials and special articles in "The Saturday Evening Post," "Collier's," "Everybody's," "Harper's Weekly," "The Atlantic Monthly," and other thought-provoking publications had the most widespread influence. Circulations were not large, and advertising played hardly any part at all. Yet, these publications were very important in the life of the nation.

Personal journalism existed in the United States throughout the history of the country. The newspaper was published because a man was compelled to say something, to assume local leadership. The editor and publisher was usually the same man. He was likely to have a job printing establishment associated with his publication and that earned the profits. Such men as William Cullen Bryant, Charles A. Dana, William Randolph Hearst, Horace Greeley, Joseph Pulitzer, William Allen White, Henry Watterson, Joseph Medill, just to mention a few giants—were not essentially businessmen. They were public men who sought to lead other men to a public position. They fought hard with all the roughness of partisanship. Their voices were never ignored.

Today, on the whole, the American newspaper eschews this role of leadership of opinion. The costs of owning a newspaper or a magazine, of manufacturing an issue for publication, are so great that more and more leadership opinion is subordinated to the satisfaction of readers' tastes, because taxes and labor costs have forced upon the press business responsibilities which earlier generations took in their stride.

Only those who risk responsibility and are fearless as to consequences can lead.

★ The Doctor Says ★

Here Are Surprising Facts

About the Common Cold

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for NEA Service

The common cold is the most annoying and humiliating illness with which your doctor has to deal.

His annoyance and humiliation are increased if he has to interrupt his recommendations to you while he clears his own nose or throat.

Your family doctor is the first to admit he can't "cure" a cold. The most he can do is to ease your discomforts and prevent complications.

He also can reduce the amount of money that's thrown away for useless products. Maybe you remember Benjamin Franklin's advice to readers of his "Poor Richard's Almanac," in 1736: "He is the best physician who knows the greatest number of useless remedies."

These are the facts about the common cold: It is caused by one or more of a large family of related viruses, many of whom bear little resemblance to their next-of-kin.

Commercial cold and respiratory vaccines, whether taken by mouth or injected under the skin, are of no value. They are mixtures of bacteria that do not cause the common cold and contain none of the viruses that do cause it.

True virus vaccines are now being tried by the U. S. Armed Forces and doctors at the Johns Hopkins Hospital. But they are useful only when cold is caused by one or two members of the large family of cold viruses.

Catching cold has little to do with subfreezing temperatures, draughts, chafing, wet feet or soaked clothing. Aviators aloft on a raft in the open sea and Eskimos living in the Arctic Circle do not "catch cold" unless they meet someone who's giving nose-and-throat-room to the pesky virus.

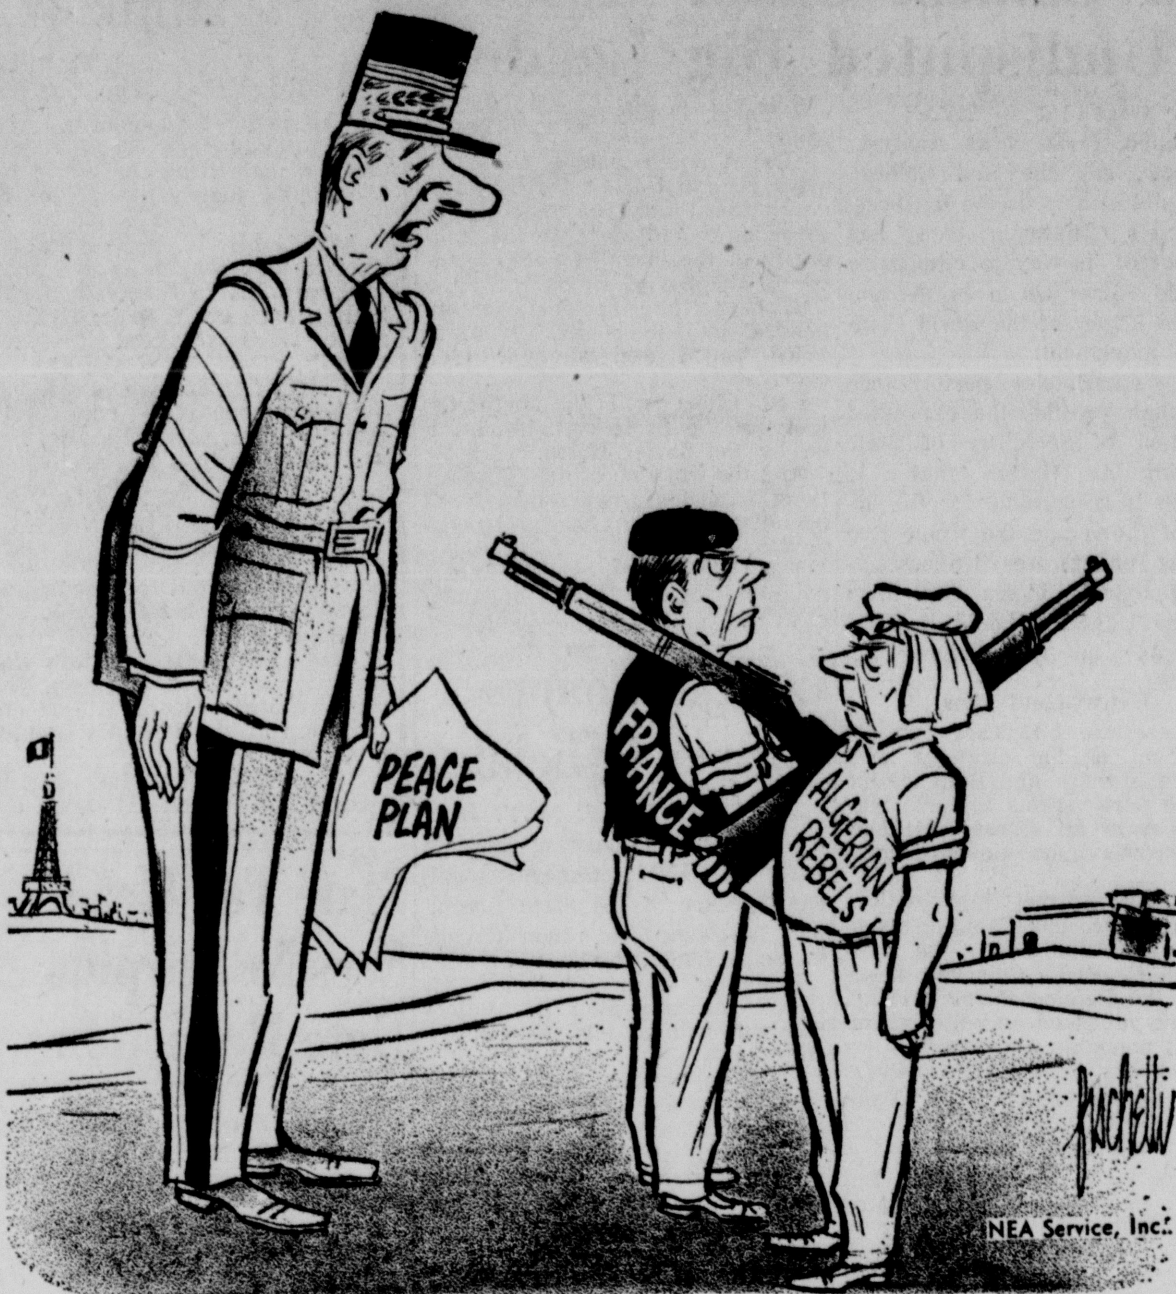

Lowered resistance has little to do with catching cold. An epidemic will sweep a football squad as rapidly as it goes through a nursery.

Diet has little to do with catching cold. Citrus fruits and other foods rich in vitamin C are pleasant to take. But, unless you're so deficient that your gums bleed and your skin is peppered with black and blue spots, you're no more apt to catch cold than anyone else. By the same token, you won't prevent a cold, lessen its duration or severity, or ward off complications by overloading with vitamin C or any other vitamin, alone or in combination.

When you develop a cold, you may be sure that the source of your infection was someone who made you a present of the virus by breathing close to you, sneezing or coughing in your vicinity, shaking hands with you after handling a soiled handkerchief, kissing you or being kissed by you.

Later, if you are equally careless, you'll pass the virus along to others and, most particularly, to members of your household, co-workers or classmates.

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Many people in high and low places here and elsewhere are bothered by the threat of inflation. No two groups of them seem able to agree as to what inflation is, to say nothing of what to do about it.

The result: Inflation is shaping up as a major political issue for 1960, instead of being handled as an economic problem about which there should be non-partisan policy and no public confusion.

President Eisenhower has talked frequently about inflation in terms of reduced purchasing power of the dollar.

The cabinet committee on price stability and economic growth, under Vice President Nixon, is supposed to be educating people about these things.

BUT ITS EMPHASIS IN SEVERAL REPORTS issued so far is that economic growth and reasonable price stability are the important things—not inflation.

Both Democratic National Committee Advisory Council

Economist J. Kenneth Galbraith and Senator Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), chairman of the Congressional Economic Committee, have jumped on this.

In a committee staff study by Indiana economist Charles L. Schultz, recent inflation is attributed to two principal factors: Expanded research activities accompanied by increased salary and overhead costs; price rises in some industries—like steel and autos—not accounted for by increased demand.

To union economists, inflation is caused by excessive profits. Their argument is that wages could be raised without raising prices simply by taking the added payroll costs out of profits.

After this doubletalk, Mr.

TO FARMERS, INFLATION

IS MEASURED more by the parity index than anything else. If the prices of things farmers buy go up while crop prices go down, they are definitely suffering from both inflation and deflation. The parity ratio, which was 100 in 1914, has dropped 20 per cent in 10 years, to a present level of 80.

To consumers who measure their well-being by the cost of living, prices have gone up 25 per cent in the same 10 years, from an index number of 100 in 1914, to 125, now.

To people in the upper income tax brackets, inflation is caused by high government spending, unbalanced budget and deficit financing.

What this shows is simply that inflation is many things to different people. And, until economists and politicians can agree on what inflation is, how can they stop or prevent it?

When the Senate Finance Committee under chairman Harry Byrd (D-Va.) made its futile study of monetary policy in 1958, a lot of experts were asked for a layman's definition of inflation.

Byrd got many answers, no agreement.

The presidents of the 12 Federal Reserve Banks ganged up and gave four definitions. They added that none was correct or incorrect and they were not useful under all conditions. The significant thing was that all four began with, "Inflation is a rise in prices."

WILLIAM MCCHESNEY MARTIN JR., chairman of the Fed's board of governors in Washington, gave two definitions:

1. "Aggregate demand . . . in excess of aggregate availability of resources at existing prices."

2. "Inflation is a flow of spending in excess of the flow of goods and services."

After this doubletalk, Mr.

Martin did lay his words on an understandable line with the statement that:

"The effect of inflation is manifest in rising prices, and to the man in the street, inflation is a rise in the cost of living." If everybody could agree on that they could, as Mr. Martin expressed it, "focus on the causes and how to prevent it."

Your Magic Lantern

By FRANK TRIPP

Starting off at what once was movie time, after the evening paper has been read and the dishes washed, Mom moves in, plunks herself into her favorite chair and asks, "What's on tonight?" You turn the knob on your new magic lantern.

The first scene is, "Don't ad-stretch while Channel 999 swishes through the browned out directory of whoodunits and credits for clothes, shoes and electric light bulbs.

IT'S A MAN doing the commercial next time. He's got a box too; another washing powder. In one minute flat he knocks everything that Tessie said about hers into a cocked hat. By fight time you'd settle for a washboard and a scrubbing brush.

It's about like last night, only last night was the battle of the tooth pastes. By your scoring that was a draw, except to prove that chlorophyll is what makes grass green, cows' milk white—and ad writers screwy.

All this time you've been waiting for the fight. You only had to use the TV alibi once more, when Mom mentioned a new refrigerator. She knew that the refrigerator was on your mind—or what's in it.

SHE KNEW that the man would say: "Now friends, go fetch a delicious cold bottle of Mossy Tub Brew, your ticket to the fight, and enjoy a glorious evening as the guest of Mossy Tub Inc., brewers by appointment to King Tutankhamen since 1358 B.C."

You go for your bottle of Mossy Tub; only you're really after four bottles of Old Copper Vat (1950 A.D.) which you like better. Alas, the cupboard is bare.

"Didn't you order that case of Old Copper Vat like I told you this morning?" you yell from the kitchen. Back comes the answer. "We ain't going to buy any more beer till the television is paid for—besides, the man said Mossy Tub, you cheap gate-crasher!"

It was a hell of a fight that you missed half of. No matter, you will read what your newspaper says about it tomorrow.

One plug for the magic lantern, two for the newspaper? Yep—just like Tessie.

A Good Sign for U. S. Seen In British Election Result

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Nationally the conservatives in the United States can derive much satisfaction from the victory of the Conservatives in the British elections. Conservatives in both the Republican and Democratic parties in America can rejoice.

For conservatism in Britain triumphed against radicalism—against an experimentation with the national economy and the fiscal structure that threatened serious disturbance to business. Certainly there are parallels between what has happened in England and the political trend in this country. There are important implications that can be read into the future.

Has Two Factions

For the socialist Labor party in Britain is composed of two factions—just as is the Democratic party in the United States. One faction in the British Labor party is conservative, just as are the Southern Democrats in America. The other faction in the Labor party is radical, with a strong labor-union backing, like the so-called "liberals" in the Democratic party in the North here. This lack of unity hurt the British Labor party with the independent voter. Many a worker with allegiance to his labor union declined to tell the pollsters how he was going to vote. The "don't knows" often know very well how they intend to vote but simply refuse to disclose their secret.

The basic factors in the British election last week were the same as have been experienced in America in other elections. These are the factor of contentment on the economic side and the factor of peace in international relations.

England has been recovering steadily from the war years and has managed to handle its budgetary affairs efficiently. Unemployment has been kept down, and the price structure has been held to a stable level.

Under such circumstances, the voters say, "Why change?" The British Conservative leaders "offered" the voters good times and peace. They promised that these would continue to be their goals. Every one realizes, of course, that peace is a two-sided affair and that another country can upset it, but fundamentally the party in power promises to do all it can to forward the cause of peace. Thus, Prime Minister Macmillan's trip to see Mr. Khrushchev in Moscow, followed as it was by the Soviet Premier's visit to the United States, put the Conservative party in Britain in the position of striving earnestly to find some way out of the deadlock in world affairs.

The fact that Prime Minister Macmillan is so friendly with President Eisenhower and has been able to restore the good relations between America and Britain which prevailed before the Suez tragedy helped the Conservatives to gain the confidence of the British people and to win votes. America's good will is important to Britain's trade and to her defense.

'The Party of Business'

But, broadly speaking, the election was a triumph for sound fiscal policies and conservative programs in the British government. In America the Republican party is characterized by the Democrats as being "the party of business." The Republicans could well retort that this is true up to a point—that the Republicans have always striven to be "the party of good business." And that's what the Democratic party might well try to make its objective, too.

For, after all is said and done, unemployment loses elections for the party in power. The recent recession lost Congress for the Republicans in 1958, but there have been evidences in the last few months that "peace and prosperity" is improving Republican chances for 1960. Politics is the same the world over in democracies. The issues revolve around the well-being of the people—their domestic problems and their apprehensions on the international side.

The British Labor party made several mistakes in the last campaign. It promised certain benefits to the populace on the social side, but it also showed a tendency to tamper with the tax and business structure in a way that created fears of irresponsible government. The British electorate is fundamentally conservative. It wants genuinely liberal programs but not at the expense of a demoralized economic system. Hence, nationalization of industry, popular a few years ago with the British Labor party, now has split that organization, and a third party—the Liberal party—has begun to draw the "conservative liberals" away from the "radical liberals" in the social Labor party. That's why the Liberty party, though a small 5 per cent of the total vote, significantly increased its strength from half that figure in the previous election, whereas the Labor party lost several percentage points.

The Prospect Here

Conservatism's victory in Britain may be the forerunner of a conservative victory in the United States. Here, too, the Republican party is veering away from the "radical liberal" doctrine and is making a bid for the "conservative liberal" who has previously been attracted by the Democratic party but who are being alienated by the unsound fiscal policies of the Northern radicals.

In Britain many a housewife whose husband is a trade unionist went to the polls to vote against the Labor party, and the same thing is likely to happen in America unless labor-union leaders stop belittling the exposures of the McClellan committee and, instead of urging repeal, do something to carry out the spirit and purposes of the latest labor-reform law.

If South or East had seen all the cards there would be no story about this hand. South would simply have played the ace of spades at trick one, led a trump and made his contract. However, South played low from dummy and East took his king. A spade return would have ended proceedings but East could not believe that declarer held four spades so East shifted to the seven of clubs.

So, instead of playing the ace P. Z. simply forced dummy's king with the ten spot.

A heart was led from dummy next. P. Z. took his ace and led back the deuce of clubs. East won with the nine and now he saw the light. He led a spade and P. Z. ruffed to set the hand.

INDIAN LAKE, N. Y. (AP) — State police, rangers and volunteers searched Adirondack woods near here today for a 77-year-old man reported missing since Sunday morning.

Another man, Phillip Scott of Greenfield Center, near Saratoga Springs, told police Clayton Cross of North Creek disappeared about 11 a. m. Sunday on a trail leading from Route 10 to Rock Lake, eight miles north of here.

Scott said he and Cross had been motoring along Route 10. Cross offered to show Scott the trail to Rock Lake but the two became separated, Scott reported.

Temperatures were in the upper 30s and winds were strong during the night.

Popular Showman Suffers Seizure

DANVILLE, Va. (AP) — A former shoe-shine boy who became the "Mr. Carnival" of show business, James E. Strates, is dead at the age of 65.

The Greek-born showman who moved his mammoth midway around the nation by rail for a quarter of a century suffered a stroke here Saturday night and died in a hospital Sunday morning.

His Strates Shows had just completed a stand at a fair here and was preparing to move on to Raleigh, N. C.

Funeral services are scheduled at Raleigh at 4 p. m. today, with burial later in the week at Endicott, N. Y., where Strates got his first job in a shoe factory as a 15-year-old immigrant from Sparta, Greece, in 1909.

Strates was known for his insistence on a clean carnival, achieved through the photographing and fingerprinting of all his employees, the lack of cash prizes and no controlled devices.

He took his show on the rails in 1934 and wintered in recent years at Orlando, Fla. Said to be the world's largest of its kind, the show required 30 rail cars to transport from city to city.

Strates once owned a pool room at Elmira, N. Y., and later expanded his holdings to include a 600-acre cattle farm near the New York community.

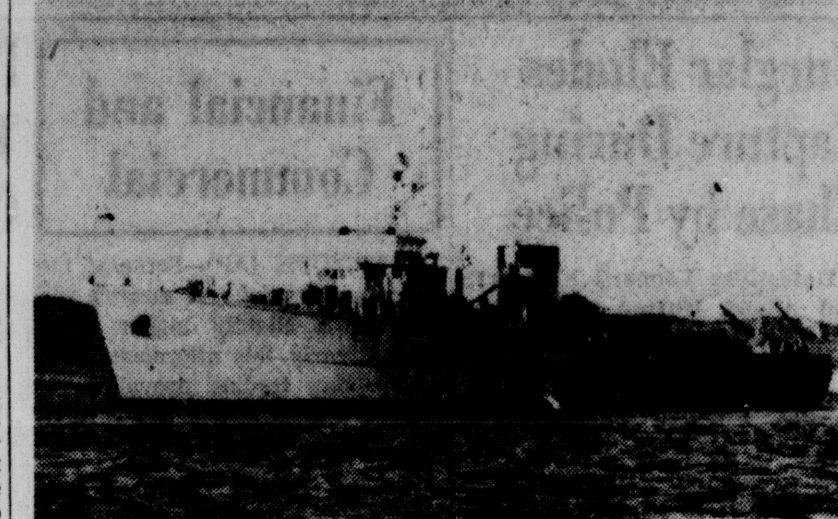

Survivors include a son and a sister.

Youth to Face New Charge In Illinois Case

JERSEYVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A third cold-blooded murder has been admitted by James Palmer, 21, recent bridegroom, ex-soldier and former bellhop.

Palmer, gaunt, mild-mannered and red-haired, was captured Saturday after breaking into a Jerseyville cement plant and holding eight men at bay with a rifle for an hour and a half. He got $2,000 in the plant and told the eight he was going to shoot seven of them and take owner Louis Gorman hostage.

No Sign of Remorse

But Palmer glanced away for a moment and Gorman, husky Jerseyville police commissioner, slapped the rifle away and knocked Palmer down.

Palmer confessed, apparently without remorse, the killing of Thomas L. Nelson, 40, proprietor of a St. Louis County, Mo., bait and tackle shop, Sept. 12, and a waitress, Hazel Riley, in nearby Wood River, Ill., Sept. 15.

Sunday night he said to Deputy Sheriff Mel Leach, "I think there is something else I ought to tell you."

He said he shot a filling station attendant in Humboldt, Tenn., on Sept. 24. A telephone check disclosed that a Billy Marshall, 22, was found shot to death in a Humboldt filling station Sept. 24.

All Shot in Head

All three persons were shot in the back of the head with .22-caliber weapons. Nelson and Mrs. Riley were each shot six times with a semi-automatic rifle. Palmer said he used a semi-automatic pistol on Marshall.

He got less than $300 from the three. Police said Mrs. Riley apparently was raped, but Palmer denied raping her.

Palmer has been charged with murder in the slaying of Mrs. Riley. He also faces two counts of assault with intent to kill and a charge of armed robbery.

East Jewett Man Held in Attempt To Take 2 Autos

A young fellow from East Jewett in Greene county has apparently gotten himself into a peck of trouble with the attempted theft early this morning of two automobiles from homes in the Mt. Marion area.

He is Edward Siatkowski, 21, who was committed to the Ulster County jail on a charge of public intoxication.

This afternoon he will face a charge of grand larceny when he is arraigned before Justice of the Peace Millard Davis of the Town of Ulster.

Keys Were In Cars
Siatkowski's activities started about 5 a. m. and were terminated about 5 a. m. when he was arrested by Trooper Richard Ryan of the Kingston state police.

Siatkowski didn't get very far in either one of the vehicles, one of them ending up in a ditch, the other one straddling a low rock wall. In each case the keys had been left in the ignition.

Sgt. Raymond L. Keating told The Freeman that Siatkowski first took a 1954 Chevrolet owned by Carl Cousen of Mt. Marion. It was parked in the driveway. This one ended up in a ditch on the Cousen property. Cousen dashed out of his house and reportedly saw Siatkowski entering a wooded section nearby.

Straddles Rock Wall
He apparently came out of the woods about a half mile away and got into a 1956 Plymouth sedan parked in the driveway of Bo Leide of Mt. Marion. He drove this vehicle over a culvert on the Leide premises, ending up hopelessly straddling a low rock wall.

In the meantime Cousen had notified state police and Siatkowski was picked up by Trooper Ryan. Cpl. Edward Shann, BCI, was called and questioned the man.

Reports Money Stolen
He reported that this morning a call had been received from Richard Gunderson of Box 83, Mt. Marion, who resides in the same area as Cousen and Leide, reporting that two cars on his property had been broken into during the night and two bags of change taken from their glove compartments. Gunderson estimated that he had about $18 or $20 in pennies and small change.

However, fortunately, Gunderson had not left his car keys in the ignition.

Discuss Conference
LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Cabinet met today for the first time since the election and presumably discussed arrangements for a summit conference. The meeting lasted 45 minutes.

Crowds outside No. 10 Downing St., the Prime Minister's residence, cheered the Cabinet ministers as they drove up to the door.

Before the meeting Macmillan had separate talks with two senior members of his government — Chancellor of the Exchequer Derick Heathcoat Amory and Home Secretary Richard A. Butler.

COSMIC CONCEPTION—Year III of the Space Age got off to a spectacular start when Russia sent a rocket—Lunik III—around the moon. If it manages to stay in orbit, it will bring to two the number of current Russian earth satellites, as against eight American. Both countries have an artificial "planet" circling the sun. In the two years since Sputnik I, the U.S. has launched 12 successful earth satellites (out of 16 tries); Russia three. Several U.S. attempts to hit or circle the moon have failed; Russia hit the moon once (Lunik II). Any Russian failures are not known.

Saturn

orbit around the earth and eep into space" by 1962-3.

No scientist or military man interviewed here was willing to predict the United States would meet that schedule.

The project was announced in Washington Sept. 12, 1958. It proposed construction of a 1½ million pound thrust rocket engine, or booster.

Program Accelerated
On Feb. 12, 1959, the Advanced Research Projects Agency said in a news release the "Saturn" program is progressing at an accelerated rate. The booster is expected to be test flown in 1960.

In July, the Defense Department announced, "The Saturn test vehicle will be delivered to the test lab (at Huntsville) in November and the first static testing is due in December."

The July announcement said the test tower would be completed by Sept. 1. It wasn't. It won't be ready for weeks.

While the engines for the 1½-million-pound thrust rocket have been delivered, the fuel tanks for the super booster have not been completed. In fact, the fabrication laboratory schedule does not even call for the assembly of the largest of fuel tanks until the end of this month.

Saturn Problems
Adding to the problems which bedevil Saturn, the ARPA, which has been in charge of the project to date, announced Sept. 23 it was getting out of the space business. Dr. Herbert C. York, Defense Department director of research and engineering, told a news conference that responsibility for development of Saturn "eventually will go to the Air Force."

A spokesman for the Army Ordnance Missile Command was asked whether he thought the administrative changeover would delay the Saturn program and whether, since the Air Force had its own space program, the project itself was endangered.

He merely raised his hands skyward, palms up, rolled his eyes, and shrugged.

Deputy Sheriff Slain

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — A gun battle erupted outside a night-club here Sunday night when a deputy sheriff attempted to break up a fight between a man and woman. The deputy and the man were killed.

Dead were Deputy Junius Marchand, 32, and Tommy Lee Spoon, 36, of Galveston, Tex.

Washington's farewell address was written by the President in collaboration with Alexander Hamilton.

Latins Ask

ganizations at a meeting last Tuesday.

Last week, the Utica lodge of the Sons of Italy asked the governor to call off the investigation, which was launched under the Democratic administration of former Gov. Averell Harriman. The lodge also contended that the probe had injured residents of Italian extraction.

Says Role Exaggerated
Special Prosecutor Robert E. Fischer, who is conducting the investigation, indirectly answered the charges in a speech Saturday night in Little Falls, where he was a guest at a dinner of the Columbus Fraternal Organization, which also has an Italian-American membership.

Fischer said the "role of Italian-Americans in crime has been greatly exaggerated."

He said many persons of Italian descent were law-enforcement officers and pointed particularly to his own chief assistant, Louis J. Cassella.

Many Devoted to Good
"There are in every generation the Capones and the Lucianos just as there are the John Dillingers and the Louis Lepkes," Fischer said. "But for every Capone, ... and Luciano there are thousands of men (bearing Italian names) who have devoted their lives to putting the racketeer behind bars."

Fischer made no direct reference to the Utica investigation. The Federation of Italian-American Societies said in its letter that the Utica investigation was instigated by Utica newspapers. It asked the governor:

"Do you feel that approximately 60,000 people of Italian origin should be subjected to abuse and discrimination because of the so-called power of the press?"

The investigation was launched when three Utica men were found at the 1957 Apalachin gangland convention and witnesses before the State Investigation Commission told of widespread vice and crime in the city. The Utica newspapers won a Pulitzer Prize this year for their efforts in cleaning up the city.

Car Overturns

A car operated by Albert Gaines, 35, of Mt. Marion, turned over on the Old King's Highway about a mile and a half south of that hamlet about Sunday noon, it was reported today by Kingston state police. Gaines escaped injury in the mishap, state police said. He was proceeding south on a left curve when his car skidded, went up an embankment and overturned.

Burglar Eludes Capture During Chase by Police

Detectives Leonard Ellsworth and Albert Hutton were close to an on-the-spot burglary catch last night as they were on patrol near Don Short's Amoco Service Station, Foxhall and Flatbush Avenues, but a man said to be about medium height, who had entered the building, got away in a chase over Foxhall Avenue.

After hearing a noise in the area they saw him takeoff. He got away they said, after they searched the area, assisted later by officers Harry Short and William Snyder.

The gas station had been entered by the breaking of a rear window, and an estimated $50 in cash was taken from a cash register, which was broken open. The man, the detectives said, appeared to be about five feet, eight inches tall, 140 pounds, and of medium build, probably in his late 20's. He wore a brown jacket.

Townsend Still Faces Troubles

BRASSCHAAT, Belgium (AP) — Religious troubles still plague the romantic life of Peter Townsend, former suitor of Princess Margaret. He now plans to wed a Belgian heiress.

The romance with Princess Margaret flourished because he is divorced. Now it appears unlikely the handsome 44-year-old British air ace will be able to wed his fiancée, a Roman Catholic, within the church. But he says they will be wed soon, regardless.

Townsend presented newsmen to his fiancée, Marie-Luce Jamagne, 20, Sunday.

"I am not sure when exactly we will get married, but I hope it will be within the next three months or so," he said.

Townsend was asked whether he planned to marry the dark-haired daughter of a wealthy Belgian tobacco executive in a religious ceremony.

"I would rather not discuss that point," he replied. "It is too delicate a question."

Townsend is an Anglican and was married in the Church of England. The wife he divorced in 1952 is still living and has remarried. A Belgian priest said today if he were to marry Townsend, he would be in the Roman Catholic Church.

Marie-Luce, who toured the world with Townsend as his secretary-photographer after his broken romance with Princess Margaret, proudly displayed a sizable diamond engagement ring.

The convention urged that the national AFL-CIO "explore with other groups the possibility of calling a national conference of labor, farm and other liberal forces in the spring of 1960 prior to the convening of both party conventions."

Secretary-treasurer Emil Mazey joined Woodcock in advising against a movement for a third party. But Mazey's brother Ernest sided with the few who dissented.

"We ought to consider a party of laborers, farmers, Negroes and liberals," he declared.

Paul Silver, member of the resolutions committee, contended a third party would mean victory for the Republicans.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Some of the space age stocks and aircraft did well in a slightly higher stock market early this afternoon. Dull, semiholiday trading prevailed.

Most pivotal stocks made modest gains, kept generally ahead from 1 to 3 points or so.

Because of the Columbus Day observance banks and many business firms were closed. The high Jewish holiday, Yom Kippur, also dampened trading.

Steels and rails were slightly higher on balance. Motors, nonferrous metals, oils and chemicals made gains. Tobacco was lower. Airlines were mixed.

Thiokol, the rocket fuel stock, added about 3 points. Zenith was up more than 2.

Kennecott made a 2-point spurt. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 50 cents to $222.90 with the industrials up $1, the rails up 20 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Corporate stocks were higher. Because of Columbus Day, most banks and over-the-counter dealers specializing in U.S. government bonds were closed and there were no reports on trading.

1959 Columbus Saved
ASBURY PARK, N.J. (AP) — Christopher Columbus learned in 1492 that discovering America can be a very trying thing. Carl Pisano learned it Sunday.

Pisano, a make-believe Columbus attired in appropriate costume, fell into the Atlantic during a pageant commemorating the discovery of America.

A Red Cross official fished the 1959 Columbus out of the water and he proceeded to shore where he was greeted by "Indians."

The lightweight radio apparatus for World War I airplanes was developed by a woman, Dr. Frances G. Wick.

Historical Group To Hear Address On State Canals

DR. MARVIN A. RAPP

Associate Executive Dean of the State University, Dr. Marvin A. Rapp, chairman of the St. Lawrence Seaway Committee of the University, will be the guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of Ulster County Historical Society Friday, 6:30 p. m. at Governor Clinton Hotel.

His subject will be "Canals of New York State."

Rapp is a transportation economist and historian for over a decade, associated with the development of transportation on the Niagara frontier, a field in which he has had many responsibilities and honors. Several times he has been selected as "Outstanding Man" and "Man of the Year" in that area.

From 1954 to 1956 he served as consultant-director to the Port Division of the City of Buffalo and was instrumental in planning and implementing the Niagara Frontier Port Authority.

He has written extensively in the field of the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Great Lakes and in addition to the economics of transportation he has written on its history and folklore.

Attending further to his interest in history is his service as consultant for the New York State Joint Legislative Committee on the Preservation and Restoration of Historic Sites and his present post as president of the New York State Folklore Society.

Members of the society and their guests have been asked to make their dinner reservations early.

Urge Rocky
He is not being asked to appear at the Western States meeting but his supporters would like him there for private meetings.

A Rockefeller spokesman said the governor has so far turned down all invitations to speak in California.

Plans Three Other Dates
Rockefeller has indicated he would accept no speaking engagements out of state because of a heavy schedule of official business. But he did go to New Hampshire two weeks ago for a meeting with old Dartmouth classmates. While on the trip, he also met with Republican leaders in Vermont.

He is planning three other out-of-state appearances next week—before the American Public Assn. in Atlantic City, at the Civil Defense Committee of the Governor's Conference in Chicago and before the Inland Press Assn. in Chicago.

All these appearances are described by his aides as non-political.

Investor Forum

Harry C. France

GOVERNMENT BONDS
I have been deluged with inquiries about U. S. Government bonds. Thousands of conservative investors are interested in these high grade obligations. They are selling at the most attractive prices in 30 years. It is well for prospective purchasers to understand the reasons why these bonds are yielding up to 4.85 per cent if held to maturity.

U. S. Government bond prices are very sensitive to money-market conditions. When interest rates are low, bond prices are high. And when rates are high, prices are low.

To illustrate: In 1954, when money was "cheap," a conservative American investor bought ten $1,000 U. S. Government 3½ per cent long-term bonds at 111. They cost $11,000. At that time the re-discount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank was 1½ per cent. Thus, a member bank could borrow from its reserve bank $1 million at a cost of 15,000 a year. Money was cheap. Government bond prices were high because of this.

Today, the re-discount rate is 4 per cent, and a year's loan of $1 million would cost $40,000—nearly three times the cost five years ago. And with money "expensive," these long-term government 3½ per cent bonds are selling for about 85 cents on the dollar. If this conservative investor were to sell his $1,000 3½'s, he would suffer a loss of over $2,000.

This situation obtains all over America. There are hundreds of thousands of government bond investors who have "paper" losses in their holdings. And until money gets cheaper, the prices of those bonds will stay down.

The reason I am enthusiastic about government bonds just now is that I believe money is about as expensive as it will get. From 1954 to the present moment the re-discount rate has gone from 1½ per cent to 2 per cent to 2½ per cent to 3 per cent to 3½ per cent and to 4 per cent.

While this has been taking place, all government bonds have gone down, down, down in price. What has happened to the long-term 3½'s (from 111 down to 85) has also happened to a score of other government bonds. And today, with yields of from 4.50 per cent to 4.85 per cent, I think these bond prices are nearly on the bottom. Leading Wall Street money authorities with whom I have talked believe money is about as costly as it will go.

Short-, medium-, and long-term obligations are available at most attractive prices. Here are five:

1. The short-term 2½'s due in November, 1960, are priced at 97½ cents on the dollar. A $1,000 bond would cost $975, and if held until maturity date, a capital gain of $25 would result. The yield to maturity is 4.7 per cent.

2. The short-term 3's due in February, 1964, for $922 a $1,000 bond with a yield of 4.85 per cent.

3. The 2½'s due in February, 1965, for $890 a $1,000 bond, yield 4.81 per cent.

4. The 4's due in October, 1969 (10 years), for about $950 a $1,000 bond.

5. The long-term 3½ per cent obligations due in February, 1990, can be bought for around $870 a $1,000. These bonds are ideal obligations for those with long-term insurance contracts and mortgage payments to make.

Money - market conditions change rapidly. Just as basic money-rates were low in 1954, only to rise rapidly by 1959, so could money-market rates ease off during the 1959-1964 period and the medium- and long-term government bond prices rise to around face value or higher.

THE FORUM

Arsonist Destroys Woman's Residence

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — "I might as well give up," an elderly Negro woman said after fire damaged the new home she was building on her own land in a white section.

Elizabeth Jenkins, 67, has lived on the land in another house for 43 years. A fashionable white neighborhood has grown up around the tract.

Deputies W. H. Adams and Kenneth Earnest said the fire was deliberately set.

Sheriff Roy Baden said the Negro woman had once asked $20,000 for the land but when developers offered to meet her price, she raised it to $40,000 and later $50,000.

200 Registered In Adult Classes At Central School

Almost 200 people registered for the Adult Education program at New Paltz Central School last Thursday.

With two exceptions, all of the classes offered for the fall semester will be given. There are still some openings in the following classes: Wood shop, advanced typing, beginners typing, high-speed longhand, Americanization, and law for the layman and beginning Russian.

Everyone is urged to take advantage of all these courses, especially the law for the layman course. A fine program has been arranged by a prominent attorney.

Specialists in the different phases of law will present the course. This course will probably not be offered again for several years. Anyone who has been thinking about joining any of these classes should contact Theodore Sirko, director of Adult Education.

A number of individuals have shown an interest in organizing a class in beginning Spanish. People wishing to join this class should also contact Sirko. The class in public speaking will not be held this semester because of the lack of registration. However, a class is being planned for the next semester. An instructor is prepared to teach the course and everyone is urged to consider enrolling in the course next semester.

Local Pastor Now Attending Centenary

The Rev. Joseph F. Blake, pastor at St. Joseph's Church, is at present taking a trip to Rome and other places of interest in Italy.

He left by plane Thursday and will take part in the centenary of the North American College from October 10 to the 14.

The American College is the ecclesiastical seminary in Rome where young theological students from various dioceses in the United States are trained and prepared for the priesthood.

Father Blake studied at this seminary from the year 1924 till he was ordained a priest in 1928 at the Basilica of St. John Lateran.

The anticipated highlight of this trip will be the expected visit of the Holy Father, Pope John XXIII, to the American College where he will preside at special ceremonies marking the 100th anniversary of the American seminary. Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York will be the ranking American prelate making this trip to the eternal city.

Park, Recreation Group Slates Meeting

Mrs. Joyce Weaver, chairman of the nominating committee will present the names of two persons for election to the board of directors. The terms of Dr. William Pugliese and Francis Connolly have expired.

Other board members include: Ashton Hart, president; Mrs. Joyce Weaver, treasurer; Mrs. Sonia Hurley, Dr. Charles Wolbers, Anthony Moriello, John Tenaglia and Jed Reiser.

Study Club to Hear Program on Women

Members of New Paltz Study Club have been invited to attend a program by Marie Shepherd at Lake Minnewaska next Monday at 8:30 p. m.

A lyric-coloratura soprano and concert comedienne, Maplewood, N. J., she will present "American Women—Historical and Hysterical" at this program. Beginning with Pocahontas, Mrs. Shepherd will tell interesting stories about women of America, including Elizabeth Goose, Martha Washington, Betsy Ross, Julia Ward Howe, and will sing serious songs and folk tunes of the times.

In the role of concert comedienne she will give impressions of modern and historical women, intensified by rapid changes of costumes and hats, beautiful and otherwise, including the gun-totin' gal of the west, the opera singer at the turn of the century, and the gold-digger of the 20's.

Credit Union Day

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Thursday will be Credit Union Day in New York State.

In and Out

MCALISTER, Okla. (AP)—Police officer Leon Palmarchuk probably was on the McAlester department's payroll the shortest time of any man. He was a policeman only eight hours. He was dismissed when it was learned he hadn't been a McAlester resident for one year.

Racial Hatred Blamed In Crime

NEW YORK (AP)—Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz says much of New York City's juvenile crime is caused by racial hatred handed down by parents to their children.

"They (the parents) go out and they say, 'why that's a spic' or 'that's a dago' or 'that's a kike,'" Leibowitz said Sunday on a TV program. "And the little child is only a carbon copy of the parent and goes out and mimics the same thing."

Appearing on the American Forum of the Air, Leibowitz also criticized youth detention institutions.

"There just aren't enough institutions, and the institutions that they do have are stew pots. They throw the good, the bad, the indifferent, the normal, the degenerate, into one stew pot. And you know what comes out of there? A worse individual than went in."

Daily newspapers appear to all members of the family all year long. Circulation remains constant—unlike TV's audience, which drops as much as 29% in summer.

State AFL-CIO Opposes Change In Compensation

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York State AFL-CIO today protested what it called damaging changes in the administration of the workmen's compensation law in recent months.

The union organization said the changes caused "severe loss and great hardship to injured workers" and called on the Compensation Board to rescind the directives responsible.

The statement listed the following changes that had brought protests from injured workers:

1. Instructions to referees to deny awards for facial disfigurements for which awards in the past have ranged from $100 to $500.

2. Elimination of "trivial claims". The AFL-CIO said minor injuries should be considered for compensation as well as major injuries.

3. Development of what the statement called "an anti-claimant attitude by the board and referees with respect to accidental injuries which have aggravated a latent prior condition."

4. A downgrading in evaluating schedule losses and in evaluating head and back cases by board physicians.

5. The selection of physicians called in as impartial specialists who have insurance connections.

Prisoners Released From Locked Cells

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. (AP) — The cell doors at the new Clinton County Jail were clanging open smartly today and everyone hoped there would be no more trouble with the locks.

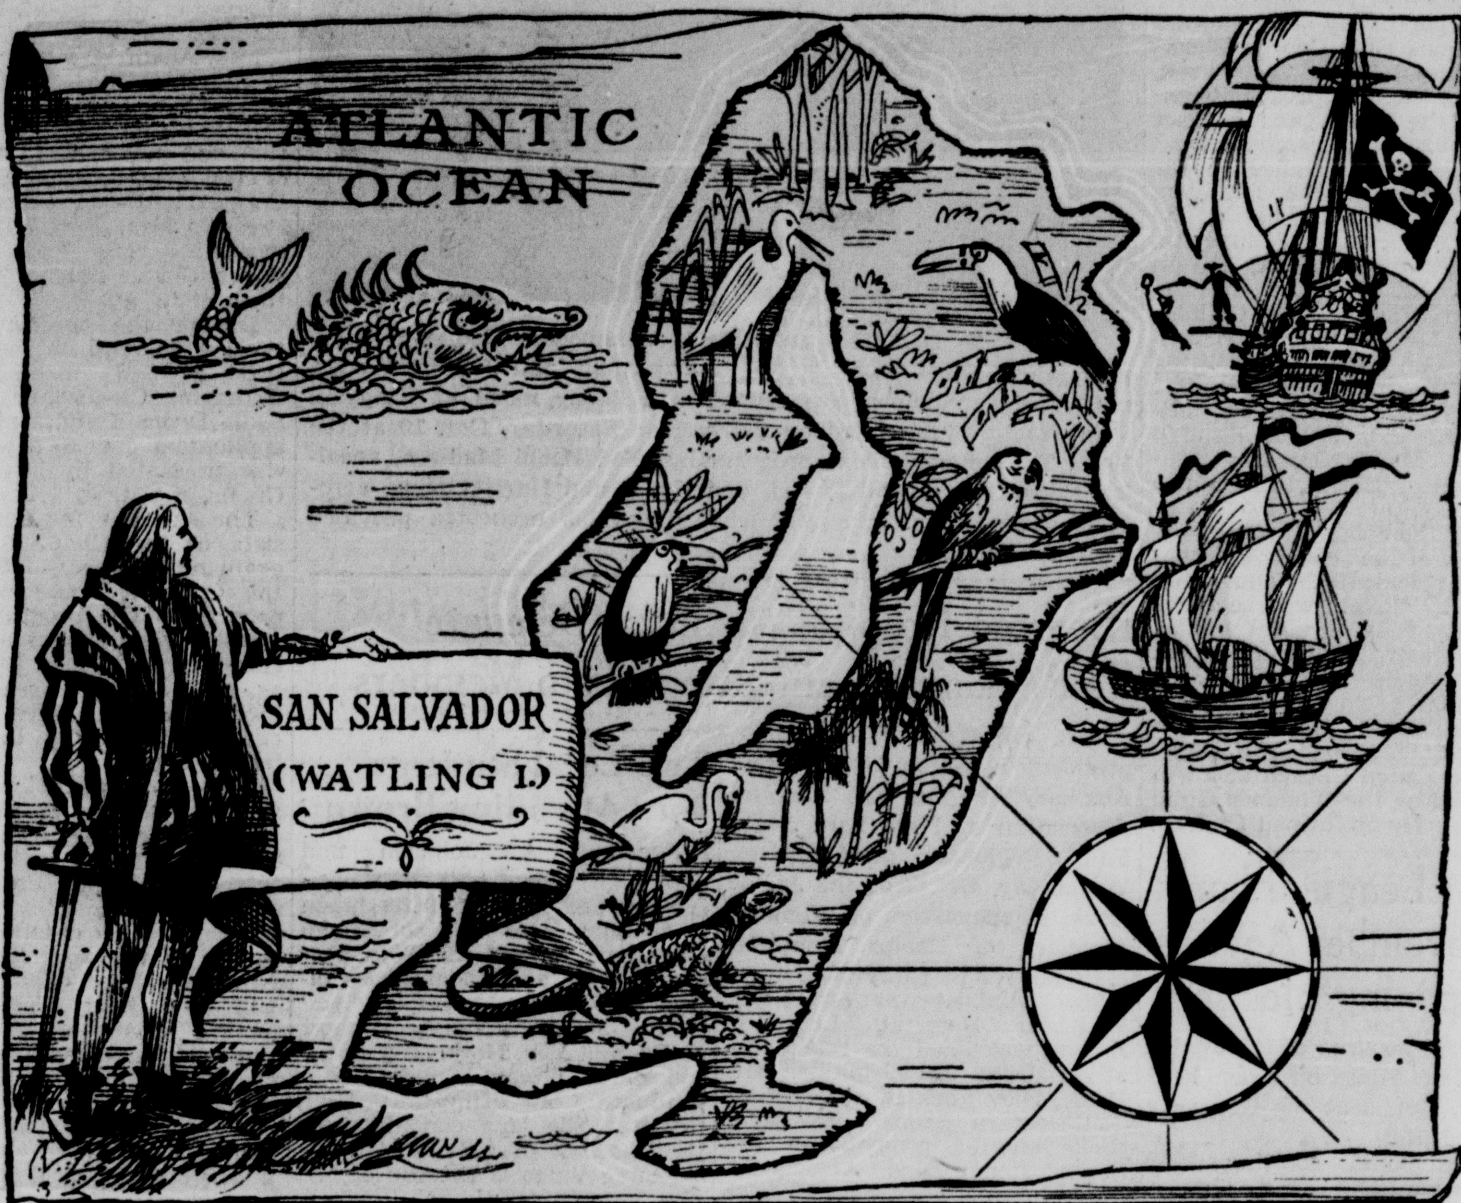

Seven prisoners, trapped in their cells for more than 24 hours, were released Saturday by a lock specialist sent by the Decatur Iron and Steel Corp. of Decatur, Ala.

The prisoners were trapped early Friday morning when the automatic lock system broke down. The jail is one-month old. The prisoners received their meals from a jailer who shoved plates to them with a stick across a seven-foot recreation area.

The prisoners said they enjoyed their day off from work but missed their exercise.

Nearly 22 million persons were admitted to hospitals in 1958, an average of 59,000 each day.

It would be shameful

Pirate Freebooted Columbus' Island

For many years, San Salvador—the island which many scholars consider the one on which Christopher Columbus first set foot in the New World Oct. 12, 1492—was named for an 18th century Captain Watling, "the pious pirate of the Bahamas." So says the National Geographic Society. Watling made his name notorious by praying for the souls of his victims as they stepped through thin air at the end of a plank—air no thinner than many of the facts surrounding the personal life of Columbus. Scholars do know, however, that Columbus named landfall "San Salvador." From his somewhat imperfect description of the real estate, the consensus has largely settled on Watling Island as THE island. To that end, most maps now designate the 12-mile-long island, nearly 400 miles southeast of Miami, Fla., as San Salvador. Gone are the birds that Columbus described; gone, too, the big trees from which were made the long canoes he saw. But the lake, big enough, in Columbus' words, to "float as many ships as there are in Christendom" is still there. Vanished, too, the native Indian population. Today, some 700-odd inhabitants are mainly descendants of African slaves. They grow vegetables and raise hogs, with the tasty meat of the iguana, a lizard, as an occasional treat.

Senator Suggests UN Charter Change

The former Air Force secretary spoke Sunday night before an estimated 1,000 Bishops' Men of the Episcopal Diocese of Rochester. He did not specify the changes he said were necessary, but said they would "give it (U. N.) additional powers."

The Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

'Crowd Acceptance' Akin To 'Family Acceptance'

The parents are charming, sophisticated and proudly non-conformist. They espouse unpopular causes, vote independently and are probably the only people in their neighborhood who don't own a TV set.

Last year, their 14-year-old girl upset them terribly. She not only announced a wish to attend a certain Sunday school but declared her belief in God.

"We're going out of our minds," her mother told me. "Her father and I have been agnostics all our lives. I suppose it's this 'group acceptance' thing. The kids Bea goes with attend this Sunday school so she has to attend it too. Well, Jim's talking her out of it. Who'd ever have thought he and I would produce a religious fanatic?"

They succeeded in talking Bea out of her interest in Sunday school. The parents who are so jealous of their right to differ from their neighbors have done a fine job of squelching their child's right to differ from them. I think their scorn of "group acceptance" a little funny.

Because the first group a child belongs to is his family. If every time he differs from his family, its respect and acceptance of him is withdrawn, he is going to expect disrespect and rejection to result from difference with other groups.

So he's not going to differ from them. When his interest in his family group starts extending to new ones, he's going to be as submissive to the new ones as he was to the old. Though he may not agree with his own age group, he'll be as scared of protesting its opinions as he was of protesting ours.

Today, parents are increasingly impatient with young people's passion for losing their individuality in their groups.

We're tired of buying Janey unbecomingly knee socks because "everybody wears them." We resent having to tolerate late hours because "the other kids" keep them.

We shake our heads when Janey insists on serving her party punch in paper cups because her "crowd considers it the thing to do. We wonder what on earth is going to happen to young people who are only safe when their "crowd" is doing their thinking for them.

When we get tired enough of it, maybe we'll be ready to look at the agreement we've demanded as the price of our "acceptance" and stop squelching difference from the family group.

Harpers Ferry Plans Commemorative Event

100th Anniversary of John Brown Raid Will Be Observed Oct. 16th

Editor's Note — A century ago the gulf between North and South was rapidly widening. But the smoldering animosity over slavery was yet to be ignited by one dramatic, emotionally charged incident. This was provided by a stubborn, passionate man and the setting he chose was Harper's Ferry. Here is the first of two stories on John Brown's momentous raid 100 years ago.

By JOHN LUNDQUIST HARPERS FERRY, W. Va. (AP)

The men were eager to get going. For weeks, most had been hiding by day in the farm house, venturing out only at night.

Now in the chill rain of an October evening, they loaded a wagon with a sledge hammer, crowbars and a quantity of pikes — long-handled poles with sharp metal tips.

A bearded old man with fierce, burning eyes mounted the wagon and tugged at the reins. It creaked onto the narrow Maryland road. Eighteen men fell in two abreast behind, rifles on their shoulders and two revolvers in each belt.

The date was Sunday, Oct. 16, 1859, and John Brown was beginning a march that led to the scaffold — and immortality. His target: Harpers Ferry and its federal arsenal four miles away across the Potomac in Virginia. His mission: to free the slaves, everywhere.

To Observe Event

Next weekend Harpers Ferry, with a present population of 1,500, will hold a commemorative observance of the event.

When Brown struck his blow at slavery, the town was a community of some 3,000. It was still in Virginia; not until the Civil War did the western part of the Old Dominion split off and become a new state, West Virginia.

Then, its industry was mainly weapons, an important factor in Brown's choice.

John Brown had the look and manner of a leader. Although 59, he was vigorous in step and bearing. His firm, white-bearded face was topped by a shock of thick hair.

The town is located on a point of land that slopes sharply down between the arms of a Y formed by the confluence of the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers. In those days bridges stretched from the city across the potomac on one side, and the Shenandoah on the other.

Differ About Precise Plans

There is argument about Brown's precise plan, but apparently he expected that both antislavery whites and Negro slaves in this border region would rise to his support once he had stuck forcefully at slaveholders.

His hand crossed the Potomac bridge at Harpers Ferry, captured its civilian guard, and moved in on the arsenal, army and rifle works without opposition. Telegraph lines were cut.

temporarily isolating the town.

Soon the town was awakening to the intrusion, and the 34 hours that Brown's raid lasted were crowded with pathos, revenge and courage. There was also irony. A raider guarding the Potomac bridge mortally wounded Heyward Shepherd, a free Negro baggagemaster who had failed to obey a command to halt.

Mayor Is Victim

Other victims included the town's beloved mayor, Fontaine Beckham, who was shot peeking around a water tank Monday afternoon to see what was happening to his community. Two raiders captured by citizens were killed.

As day broke Monday, Brown's chances to get away with booty from the arsenal slipped by. No support came for his crusade.

By Monday night, Marines under Col. Robert E. Lee—later to command the Confederate armies in the Civil War—arrived from Washington to spell the militia which had rushed in from nearby towns. Lee's assistant was Lt. J. E. Stuart, who would soon be plaguing Union armies as the South's ablest cavalry leader.

John Brown and his remaining men were boxed up in the small, brick fire engine house, only five among them still unwounded. Among those dying on the floor were two of Brown's sons, Oliver and Watson. Oliver, just 20, died Monday night. Watson lay moaning nearby, beseeching his father to end his sufferings.

"If you must die, die like a man," John Brown said. By next morning, Watson, 24, was dead. And now as he crouched with his helpless raiders and about 10 prisoners in the fire house, death drew near to John Brown himself.

Tomorrow: Victory in Failure.

State Council Names Officers

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) —Michael Petruska of Troy has been elected to his third straight term as president of the New York State Conservation Council.

The council, comprised of county representatives of federated sportsmen's clubs in 59 of New York's 61 counties, concluded its 26th annual three-day convention Saturday.

The council elected a new vice president and three new members to its 15-man board of directors. All other officers and directors were re-elected.

All terms are for one year. Robert Reed of Bath became one of the three vice presidents. He replaced William Roden, who made an unsuccessful bid to unseat Petruska.

J. Paulhaus of Rome, William Fountain of Severance, and Lloyd Hatch of Cortland are the new members of the board of directors.

DINING IN A MAN'S APARTMENT

Dear Mrs. Post: I live in a community where there are quite a few unmarried men and women in their thirties, mostly of a professional class. Not too infrequently one of these unmarried men will invite a woman friend to his apartment for dinner. He prepares the dinner, acts as host and he and his guest dine alone with no others present. In my opinion, this is socially improper but I am told that it is no longer considered improper for a man to entertain this way.

Answer: Even today this cannot be considered proper and most certainly risks serious criticism.

Impressed With Her Education

Dear Mrs. Post: I have a friend who is a college graduate and tries to impress everyone with her knowledge of the English language by using long words when shorter ones would do just as well. I think it is very pretentious and in bad taste.

Answer: It is true that short words are in best taste, especially those of Saxon origin. This does not mean, however, that one can't use long words, but merely that to reach out for a long word instead of a shorter one would seem to be showing off.

A Related Wedding Announcement

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been married secretly for over two years. For business reasons this could not be made public. I would like to announce my marriage now but do not wish to disclose the real wedding date. Will you please tell me if this would be proper?

Answer: I think you will build up a great deal of distress and confusion for yourself if you do not frankly announce the true wedding date. It does not matter how long ago or how lately it occurred. This detail should not be kept secret.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-16, entitled, "Table Rules of Importance," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. ## Losers Play With New Faces In the Lineup

The Onteora Indians were forced to play with almost a brand new lineup at Wallkill Saturday and the youngsters were rocked by an experienced home side, 33-0 in a UCAL gridiron tilt. Coach Tom Wheeler has lost seven boys from his starting team.

Regular halfbacks Joe DiGiovanni and Ronnie Wendt missed the contest because of injuries. Ends John Caruso and Lucas Stoutenberg were also hurt. Three others, halfback Ed Krein, end Pete Heller and fullback Bob Jones have quit the team.

Quarterback Ralph Bilbao was the whole show for Wallkill. On the fourth play of the first quarter, he passed to Ken Rumsey for a 59-yard play and a touchdown. Ralph then tossed to Bob Edehills for the extra point.

Late in the period, Bilbao ran around end from the six to give his side another score. The PAT attempt failed.

A short pass from Bilbao to Rumsey from the three gave the winners another TD early in the second quarter and Bill Garey bucked over for the point.

The winners finished their work for the day in the final stanza as Bilbao ran around end for a 43-yard scamper and Garey passed to Jim Mooney for 34 yards and another score. Bilbao climaxed his day with a plunge for the extra point.

Newburgh Defeats Middletown, 13-6

Newburgh Free Academy defeated Middletown, 13-6, in a DUSO game at the Hilly City field Saturday. It was the 12th setback in succession for the Middies.

A miscue set up NFA's first score. It came when Middletown's center flipped the ball over a punter's head and Newburgh recovered on the four.

Dennis Hayden scored from there and Gary Griffin kicked the extra point.

Middletown tallied in the second quarter, marching 84 yards. A 32-yard pass play from Bill Sherlock to Joe Mingolla set it up and Ron Quick tallied from the three. The point try failed.

Newburgh added an insurance tally in the third period when Gordon Fox scored from the eight.

Millbrook Nips Rondout As Strother Scores Two TDs

Despite the fact they did a good defensive job on Millbrook Ace Phil Strother, the luckless Rondout Valley Ganders lost a tough 13-7 decision to the Dutchess County gridders Saturday at the Marletown School field in Stone Ridge.

Last year Strother scored five touchdowns against Rondout. This time he broke loose for an 88-yard run in the second period and then he scored the deciding touchdown in the fourth quarter. In between, the spirited Rondout forward wall dropped him for either short gains or for losses.

The home side had a scoring threat in the early stages of the second quarter, moving to the Millbrook 12 before being stalled. From there Mr. Strother got his club out of a deep hole.

He took a pitchout from the quarterback and went through his own left tackle. He got by opposing player and then picked up a couple of blockers. After that he simply fled by the opposition. Phil then booted the extra point to give the Memorials a 7-0 lead.

Pass Play Successful

Rondout got even just before halftime with the pitching of quarterback Ed Hannon and some sparkling catches by end Keith and Lynn Johnson doing most of the damage. Finally, from the 12, Hannon tossed to Keith for the TD and the same pair collaborated for the extra point.

The home side started another drive midway through the fourth period and rolled deep into Millbrook territory. However, Hannon tried a flat pass and Tom Bailey plucked it off for Millbrook on the three and carried it to the 35. It appeared he had stepped out of bounds on the 15, but the officials did not think so.

Only Five Plays

From the 35, it took the Memorials only five plays to tally the winning touchdown. Bob Stoneham slammed to the 43 and then Dan Fichter ran to the Rondout 25. After a penalty and a loss, Strother bulled his way to the 15, Fichter to the 10 and Stoneham to the six after recovering a fumble. Then Strother barreled to the two and from there he went over. His attempted placement was low.

Rondout made a desperate bid to get back into the game but a last ditch pass was intercepted. Keith Johnson was outstanding in defeat for the Ganders. He was a bearcat on defense and was instrumental in checking Strother.

Rondout now shows an 0-2 mark for the season with the other loss being a one-point decision to Wallkill.

Unbeaten New Paltz Tops Pine Bush, 25-7

New Paltz kept its unbeaten record Saturday as Ed Kruescher romped to a pair of touchdowns to lead the Hugenots to a 25-7 win over winless Pine Bush at the New Paltz gridiron.

The winners lost no time as halfback Artie Mead went 60 yards on the third play of the game for the first touchdown.

Right after halftime, the Hugenots struck for three first downs and Kruescher scampered 15 yards to pay dirt. He then galloped 75 yards in the fourth quarter and Jim Vandenburg plunged for the extra point.

Also in the fourth period, Neil Bonner intercepted a pass on the Pine Bush 35 and went all the way.

Pine Bush had scored in the third period on a pass from quarterback Pete Warms to Bob Fenner, a giant end. Warms ran the end for the PAT.

The Orange County Crusaders clicked midway in the second period after a passing and running attack as fullback Bob Fink scored from the four. He also plunged for the point.

In the third period, Joe Mann set up a score with a 30 yard run from midfield. He subsequently scored from the five on an end run. Fink bucked off guard for the extra point.

Sam Viscardo intercepted a Bill Mandia pass in the last period and romped 50 yards to score.

New Powerhouse Seen In College Football

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Four short weeks ago, teams like Auburn, Oklahoma, Southern Methodist, Army, Ohio State and North Carolina couldn't wait for the college football season to get under way.

They were loaded, ready for bear.

Today, they are lagging among the also-rans and a new group of powerhouses—the likes of Northwestern, Georgia Tech, Texas, Southern California and Syracuse—have emerged.

This Saturday, still another outfit could bulldoze its way into the national limelight. Arkansas, lightly regarded in the Southwest Conference, has eight victories in a row and has moved into contention for the championship.

The Razorbacks face their big test of the season when they entertain Texas in a night game. This one could decide the league championship and the host team in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day.

Arkansas cut down Baylor, 23-7, last week, while Texas was taking the measure of Oklahoma, 19-12.

Tigers Face Tech

Auburn showed signs of snapping out of the doldrums by whacking Kentucky, 33-0. This week, the Tigers face another formidable foe in Georgia Tech, No. 3 in the current Associated Press weekly poll. Tech spilled Tennessee 14-7.

Southern Methodist goes against Rice, while Army, beaten 17-11 by unbeaten Penn State, takes on Duke, Ohio State, which has scored only two touchdowns in three games, has the unenviable task of facing Purdue. The Boilermakers sat on Wisconsin, which had been making threatening gestures in the Big Ten, 21-0, last Saturday. Ohio State lost to Illinois 9-0, its second straight shutout.

North Carolina, which had been regarded as the heir apparent to the Atlantic Coast Conference throne, has broken even in four games and tangles with Maryland Saturday.

LSU Wins Again

Two teams that have lived up to their preseason estimates are Louisiana State and Mississippi, both of the Southeastern Conference. LSU, riding atop the AP poll, whipped Miami, 27-3, last week for its fourth victory without defeat. The Bengals' from the bayou should have no trouble against Kentucky this week.

Mississippi boasts a 3-0 record and, furthermore, hasn't been scored on. Ole Miss' latest victim was Vanderbilt, 33-0, with Tulane next in line.

Among the upstarts, Northwestern perhaps has provided the biggest surprise. The Wildcats have spent many a year in or near the Big Ten basement, but now are baring their fangs and look as though they mean it. Despite the loss of Dick Thornton, they topped tough Minnesota, 6-0, Saturday with Bob Eickhoff, a pee-wee scrub, spearheading the drive for the touchdown. This week: Michigan.

Southern Cal likewise has produced unexpected power and shows a 3-0 mark. Syracuse, also 3-0, rates now as perhaps the best in the East — by a shade over Penn State — after crushing Navy 32-6.

Cherny Hits 655 In Classic Loop

Ed Cherny powered a 655 series on solos of 227, 224, 204 in the Classic League, according to scores reported well after the deadline.

Jack Ferraro posted 643 on 214-205-224 and Frank MacDougall shot 246-602. Bill Robinson had a 246 solo.

Lawrence Beats Pioneers, 13-0

Unable to cope with a stubborn defense thrown before them by the Lawrence, L. I. football team, the Poughkeepsie Pioneers were defeated, 13-0, Saturday at the Bridge City field. The Pioneers never posed a serious threat as they suffered their first setback in three outings.

Lawrence ground out 65 yards in 12 plays to score just before the end of the first period and then capitalized on a blocked punt early in the third session to tack on an insurance marker.

Te Long Islanders dominated the first half, holding the losers to just 28 yards along the turf, but it was a different story after the intermission as the Poughkeepsie blunted the Lawrence attack and rolled up 99 yards.

The final statistics were almost even. Lawrence had a 10-7 edge in first downs in 114-100 in rushing yardage. Poughkeepsie had 39 yards in the air with two completions in seven tries while the Long Island eleven completed two out of eight tosses for 23 yards.

Poughkeepsie will meet Kingston High School Saturday afternoon in a contest that will probably decide the DUSO title.

Grid Czar Has Heart Attack At Eagle Game

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League died of a heart attack Sunday, leaving a void the men he served say they never really can fill.

The 65-year-old Bell collapsed in the seats of the very stadium in which he started his rise from college player to czar of professional football. He was watching a league game between the Philadelphia Eagles and Pittsburgh Steelers, teams he once owned and coached.

He was pronounced dead 10 minutes later in University Hospital, a stone's throw from Franklin Field where thousands once cheered him as Penn football captain.

Around the league, owners and coaches paid homage to the man under whose guidance the league prospered beyond anyone's wildest dreams. Professional football under Bell became respected as a major sport.

George Hallas, a pioneer of the pro game, probably summed up best the feeling of his colleagues when he commented:

"Bell was a great leader, a genius in fact."

All his contributions to pro football will never be forgotten. He brought pro football to its present heights and we will all miss him."

Bell's three children, Bert Jr., 23; Upton, 21, and Jane, 17, were with their father when he died. They attended the game with him.

The commissioner also is survived by his widow, the former Frances Upton, a one-time musical comedy star.

Under Doctor's Care

Bell suffered a mild heart attack last February. He had been under a physician's care ever since. His travel had been limited, and a great deal of the league work he did at his suburban Narberth home.

Dr. Paul Schrode of the University Hospital said Bell was unconscious when he first saw him. The doctor said:

"He was just gasping. He was pale white. He never regained consciousness. It must have been a massive thing to take his life so instantly."

The owners, of course, were too shocked to give much thought about a successor. Under league rules, in the event of the commissioner's death, a league meeting to elect a successor must be called within 30 days. Club owners have the alternative of appointing a president to serve until the annual meeting in January.

Acting Commissioner

For the moment, however, the acting commissioner is Austin H. Gensel, treasurer of the NFL and a former FBI agent. The constitution says the treasurer automatically becomes acting commissioner upon the commissioner's death, to serve until a new commissioner is appointed. Gensel lives in Narberth, not far from Bell's home.

Possible Successor

Speculation on a possible successor would have to include such names as George Halas, owner-coach of the Chicago Bears and a pioneer of the pro game; the volatile George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins; Don Kellert, successful young general manager of the Baltimore Colts; Paul Brown, renowned coach-executive of the Cleveland Browns; and Joe Donoghue, assistant league treasurer.

How the owners felt about Bell was indicated in comments Sunday after they learned of his death.

Paul Brown — "He was an awful lot of this professional football — probably the outstanding commissioner in sports."

George Marshall — "They will never find a commissioner as good as Bell, no matter whom they pick."

Dan Reeves, owner of the Los Angeles Rams — "A tremendous loss to football and also a personal loss. He was a great commissioner."

Edwin J. Anderson, Detroit Lions — "Bell was a level-headed administrator who met every problem head on. His death is a tragic thing. Bell has done more for professional football than any other man. He will be sorely missed by the entire league."

Jack Mara, New York Giants — "It's an awful blow to us."

He added that club owners would meet in Philadelphia on Wednesday after the funeral to discuss the problem of a new commissioner.

Vince Lombardi, Green Bay Packers — "I don't know how we'll replace him in the league."

Vic Morabito, San Francisco 49ers — "We lost our strongest member. He truly cannot be replaced. He loved us all and we loved him."

Ten-Year Pact

The short, energetic, outspoken little man from Philadelphia first became commissioner in 1946, under a three-year contract calling for an estimated $25,000 a year. The owners tore up three contracts since then, writing new ones for longer terms. The last was given to him in 1953. It was for 12 years at $50,000 a year with a $10,000 yearly pension payment.

When Bell took over as commissioner from Elmer Layden, most of the league's 12 teams were losing money. The NFL was a picture of confusion and red ink. Under his iron-fisted rule, however, player salaries, which averaged $5,000 when he took over, doubled, and attendance increased 100 per cent. Professional football, through Bell's liberal television policy, was beamed into millions of homes across the nation each season.

Green Bay Gets 3rd Straight

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Green Bay Packers, long dormant in the National Football League, have catapulted to the top of the heap on the shoulders of a hand-me-down quarterback and a shrewd new coach.

Suddenly the only stable element in the upset-prone circuit, the Packers won their third straight Sunday, edging the San Francisco 49ers 21-20, in a battle of the league's only undefeated clubs.

The main offensive threat for the Packers—who haven't won a division title since 1944—was Lamar McHan, picked up without fanfare from the Chicago Cardinals on a trial basis.

The former Arkansas star clicked on a 21-yard scoring pass to Gary Knefelc early in the fourth quarter for the deciding touchdown.

A clever offensive tactician, new coach Vince Lombardi began juggling the downtrodden Green Bay outfit as soon as he took over.

Face Rams Next

The Packers next meet the Los Angeles Rams, who won their first game in convincing fashion by upsetting Chicago's Bears 28-21.

In other games, defending champion Baltimore rallied to defeat Detroit 31-24. New York edged Cleveland 10-6. Washington upended Chicago's Cardinals 23-14 and Philadelphia turned back Pittsburgh 28-24.

Ollie Matson, acquired by the Rams for nine players, was the decisive factor as Los Angeles, now 1-2, came from behind against the Bears (1-2). Matson ground out 199 yards in 31 carries and set up three touchdown strikes by quarterback Billy Wade.

Units Clicks

Johnny Unitas bailed the Colts (2-1) out of danger. He threw three touchdown passes, including a 34-yarder to Ray Berry that put Baltimore out front in the last quarter. It was the 28th consecutive league game in which Unitas has thrown at least one scoring aerial.

Don Chandler's booming punts kept the Browns (1-2) deep in their own territory most of the day and the Giants (2-1) won despite gaining only 250 yards to Cleveland's 343.

With Ralph Guglielmi moving in for starting quarterback, Eddie LeBaron, the Redskins (2-1) had little trouble with the fumbling Cardinals (1-2).

Defensive back Jimmy Carr starred for the Eagles (2-1). He intercepted two passes and deflected a TD-bound Pittsburgh aerial late in the game.

Vincentian Wins Easily, 33-6

Coach Dick Steiner took advantage of Catholic High's weak defense to work in an entire new backfield of Lions who poured through the gaps to give Vincentian Institute of Albany an easy 33-6 win yesterday at Hawkins Stadium. The Lions are in their usual spot atop the Diocesan League standings.

Mike Phillips and Don Lynch, halfbacks, were the new standouts for the Lions, with the former turning left end for 15 yards for the opening touchdown. Lynch raced 49 yards with a stolen Catholic High pass for a 19-6 margin on the last play of the opening half. He also tallied the first of two third period touchdowns on a two-yard buck after galloping 28 yards to set up the score.

Scoring by periods:
Vincentian ... 6 13 14 0—33
Catholic High ... 0 6 0 0—6

Bunn Hearn, 68, Dies;

Ex-Pitcher in Majors

WILSON, N. C. (AP) — Bunn Hearn, 68, former major league pitcher who was baseball coach at the University of North Carolina for 27 years, will be buried here Tuesday. "Big Steam" and "Old Leaguer," as he was known among other nicknames in north Carolina, saw many of his players reach the majors.

Hearn died at his home here Saturday night, after an illness.

Hearn reached the majors with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1910, and stayed in the big time six years with the Cards, New York Giants and Chicago White Sox.

Adirondack AAU Protests Elimination of Bobsledding

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The Adirondack District AAU wants the national AAU to withdraw support from the 1960 Olympics because bobsledding has been eliminated.

The district AAU said that bobsledding had been the only AAU activity in the Winter Games.

The organization at its annual meeting Sunday adopted a resolution calling on the national group to "refrain from further support and competition" in the 1960 Olympics. The resolution is to be presented at the national AAU convention in Miami Dec. 4-6.

Bobsled events were dropped from the Olympic program after California decided not to build a bobsled run at Squaw Valley, where the Winter Games will be held. Lake Placid, which is within the Adirondack AAU district, then bid for the bobsled races but was turned down.

Says It Was Dropped

The Adirondack AAU contended that the International Olympic Committee dropped bobsledding "summarily and without reason" and that it thereby excluded the only AAU activity in the Winter Games.

The Adirondack district covers 27 counties in Eastern and Northern New York.

In another action Sunday, it asked the national AAU for permission to expand its territory to include the six western counties of Vermont and Berkshire County in Massachusetts.

Carl G. Hardy of Albany was reelected president of the district and Alden Simser of Massena was reelected secretary-treasurer. John Morgan of Saranac Lake

Monti's 271 Tops Hesperia Golfers

HESPERIA, Calif. (AP) —Eric Monti, a 40-year-old club professional, bested a field of touring golf stars to win the $20,000 Hesperia Open Sunday with a 17-under-par 72-hole total of 271.

Monti's only previous major win was the 1955 Miami Beach Open. His total was four strokes ahead of a trio consisting of former U.S. Open champ Jack Fleck, of Tazana, Calif.; Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla.; and Bob Duden, Portland, Ore., at 275.

Monti's rounds were 70-68-64-69 on the par 72 Hesperia Country Club course. The event attracted a final-day gallery of 4,000. It was sunny and warm on the desert course — the mercury reached 85.

Testimony Made Public on Famine Caused by Orders

WASHINGTON (AP)—Testimony of nine witnesses on purges, terrorism and man-made famine in the Ukraine during the 1930s and 1940s has been released in a new congressional report titled "The Crimes of Khrushchev."

The report, second of a series being released by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, contains testimony taken Sept. 9, 10 and 11 prior to the arrival of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev on Sept. 15 for his U. S. tour.

Nicholas Prychodko, an engineer from Toronto, Canada, testified he lived in the Ukraine during the 1930-33 famine.

Prychodko said most of the Ukrainian food crop was exported on orders from Moscow because of resistance in the Ukraine to the Communists. He said that at that time Khrushchev was in the Ukraine as "one of the esteemed executives of Stalin's genocide of the Ukrainian population."

Petro Pavlovych, former editor of a newspaper in the Ukrainian community of Vinnitsa, told of the 1943 discovery there of 95 mass graves of 9,439 bodies—victims of a 1937-38 purge when Khrushchev was first secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist party in the Ukraine.

The former editor said his real name is Apollon Trembow and that he now lives at Ortanna, Pa.

TV Quiz Show Probe Nears End as FTC Officials Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal Trade Commission officials testified today in what may be the wrap-up of a congressional investigation of television quiz shows.

Responsibilities of the FTC include the prevention of fraudulent advertising practices.

There still was no word on whether Charles Van Doren, a big winner on the "Twenty One" show, would accept an invitation to testify before the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee.

Subpoena in Doubt

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) declined to comment on whether a subpoena would be issued for Van Doren, who won $129,000 on the quiz show three years ago. Van Doren consistently has disclaimed any knowledge of the show's being rigged.

Other "Twenty One" contestants have testified that they were given answers in advance.

As the hearing moved into the home stretch, a Presbyterian Church official said the television industry had sacrificed "ethics, morality and honor" for high audience ratings on the quiz shows.

School Funds

Editor, The Freeman:

As a reader of your paper, you are doing a fine community service in completely reporting the news stories about our consolidated school district. The present story about the "deposit of school funds" is apparently much more significant than the average reader will surmise.

As I interpret the news stories, Alderman Hastings is discussing the propriety of bank members acting as school board members and has wisely requested the counsel for the State Department of Education for an opinion. Supt. Soper has now confused the situation with a discussion of bank stockholders. There is a big difference between stockholders and directors of banks, and I am sure that Mr. Soper knows the difference.

Patronage, politics, favoritism should not be allowed to rear its ugly head in our school board administration. Our school board members should constantly be alert to act in such a manner that they cannot be associated with such charges.

Very truly yours,
David H. Robinson
Hurley, New York

Ransom Victims Back in Kennel All Underweight

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP)—Ten tiny, four-legged victims of a $5,000 ransom plot were back home today, leading a dog's life.

Underweight, ragged and weary the prize toy poodles—dognaped from their owner Sept. 15—devoured hound-sized portions of beef, biscuits, dried milk and wheat germ.

The little canine puffsballs are valued at a total of $25,000 which accounts for their theft from the kennels of Mrs. Leicester Harrison, a dog breeder at nearby Massapequa.

Faces Theft Charges

Four women, including a former employee at the kennels, are charged with the dognaping.

Mrs. Harrison said the dogs were taken while she was ill at a hospital. She reported she got a telephone call a few days ago demanding ransom. She said she recognized the voice as that of Belle D. Joseph, 28, who formerly worked as a groom for the dogs at dog shows.

The poodles were rounded up over the weekend, some from homes of the women, some from homes of relatives or friends. The last was picked up as he limped forlornly along a Long Island expressway.

That was tiny Snowboots, off his feed and down from his normal fighting weight of 3 1/2 pounds to a mere 2 1/2. He is worth $3,500.

The women are charged with burglary. Besides Miss Di Joseph they are Virginia Kalkhof, 28, Lillian Lyons, 34, and Marcia Esterbrook, 27.
